ENEMY'S LOSS MORE THAN 210,000, SAYS CLAIM BY PETROGRAD

German Statement Says 104,000 Russians Have Been Captured in Galicia During Past Three Weeks

THE QUEEN ELIZABETH BUSY WITH TURKS AGAIN

German Cruiser Goeben Shelling Allies' Position From Sea of Marmora; "Elizabeth" in Gulf of Saros

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Although the Russian war office concedes that the Austro-German forces in Galicia have won further victories, it asserts their successes have been gained at enormous costs in men.

An official communication places the Austro-German losses in the Carpathians during the last three weeks at upwards of 40,000 men a day, and estimates that they have lost one-fourth or perhaps one-third of their strength. This would indicate a loss of more than 210,000 during the three weeks.

The German official statement issued today claims the capture of 104,000 Russians since May 1.

The struggle for the Dardanelles, which has brought some of the most deadly encounters of the war, proceeds with unabated ferocity.

Turkish troops from Asia Minor have been brought into reinforce the troops on Gallipoli peninsula. Fierce fighting now is said to be in progress near the neck of the peninsula, and dispatches from sources friendly to the allies say the warships are doing great damage to the fortifications of the Turks.

The Queen Elizabeth is shelling the Turkish positions from the Gulf of Saros while the German cruiser Goeben is shelling the allies from the sea of Marmora.

Several small engagements occurred yesterday in France and Belgium. The official German statement of today says French attacks east of the Ypres canal and in the Ailly forest and a British movement near Neuve Chapelle all failed. The French statement admits the Germans gained some ground in an assault in the vicinity of Ypres, but asserts they were driven back subsequently.

The Berlin war office reports that the situation in the east is unchanged, except for additional minor successes for the Germans in the northern region east of the Prussian frontier.

Fierce Struggle Goes on at Neck of Gallipoli

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 21.—The Athens correspondent of Reuters says fierce fighting is in progress near the neck of the Gallipoli peninsula. The big guns of the British battleship Queen Elizabeth are being fired from the gulf of Saros, assisting in the allies' attack.

The Turks are being supported by the guns of the Sultan Selim, (formerly the German cruiser Goeben), which are being fired from the sea of Marmora. Turkish troops from Aivali, in Asia Minor, are said to have been transferred to the Dardanelles.

Newspapers of Athens, the correspondent declares, say the British authorities have increased to $10,000 the reward offered by them for information leading to the destruction of the German submarine, the presence of which has been reported in the Mediterranean.

Enemy Lost Hundreds of Thousands, Says Pearograd

(By Associated Press.)

PETROGRAD, May 21.—(Via London.) An official statement today reviewing the recent fighting in the Carpathians, says:

"In the fighting of the past three weeks since the beginning of the enemy's operations in the Carpathians, their losses on May 10, May 11, May 12 and May 13, during which the fighting lost none of its intensity, averaged 10,000 a day. On the other seventeen days they were much heavier, especially during the period between May 16 and May 19, when they amounted to several tens of thousands daily.

"Certain regiments of the enemy have been reduced to a single company. The total losses during this period, including 40,000 prisoners captured by us, have undoubtedly reached to one-fourth or perhaps one-third of their total strength.

"The tons of guns lost by the enemy in this fighting is as nothing compared with their total number, but it must be borne in mind that owing to lack of horses and the scarcity of projectiles—between two and three million shells having been expended by the enemy during this period—the enemy left behind on old positions several hundred guns. This circumstance has helped to equalize the odds, which were in favor of the enemy."

French and British Gain Against Germans in West

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 21.—The French war office this afternoon gave out this report:

"North of Ypres and east of the Yser canal the enemy early last night started an attack against our trenches. He was successful in the beginning in gaining a footing, but an immediate counter attack recaptured his complete position. We won ground beyond our original positions. We took 120 prisoners.

"Further British troops made some progress at the point north of La Bassee.

"Nothing has been reported from the remainder of the front."

U. S. Places Large Orders for Military Stores With U. S.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—Large orders for military stores and foodstuffs for Italy were reported to be in the market here today despite the fact that for months the Italian government has been drawing supplies from the United States in anticipation of hostilities. Shipments of coal and wheat from this country to Italy, in the last few weeks have been extensive, it is said. Many shiploads of horses for use of the

Switzerland Will Protest Sinking Of the Lusitania

Will Follow Steps of America After Kaiser Has Replied to President Wilson's Demands

(By Associated Press.)

BERNE, Switzerland, May 21.—(Via Paris.)—The Swiss federal authorities have decided to make suitable representations to Germany on the sinking, May 7, of the Cunard line steamer Lusitania by a German submarine, as a result of which three Swiss citizens lost their lives.

The government is awaiting knowledge of the German reply to the Washington note on this subject so as better to be able to choose a wise course of procedure.

The Swiss think well of President Wilson's note, but to most newspapers it appears to be hardly strong enough. The argument is being made that the Swiss representatives will have great weight because behind them there will be the Swiss army, 500,000 strong.

Every British Ship and Crew Now Liable to Destruction

(By Associated Press.)

AMSTERDAM (Via London), May 21.—Numerous incorrect statements regarding the Lusitania which have appeared in the German press are pointed out by Captain Kneselwetter in the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger. He declares the Lusitania was not an auxiliary cruiser, "but she was a hostile vessel and, therefore, a lawful prize."

"The cargo was composed mainly of contraband," the writer continues, "and was liable to condemnation. Under the law a ship and cargo, if it is impossible to tow them into a harbor, can be destroyed. Moreover, the crew could be classified as franc-tireurs, thus standing outside the law and making their lives forfeit.

"Every German vessel is justified in expecting an attack contrary to law from every British merchantman, even if unarmed, for the British government has encouraged such attacks by offering rewards for them. Therefore, every British ship with its crew is liable to destruction lawfully."

Germans Would Boycott U. S. as a Retaliation

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, via London, May 21.—A meeting to protest against American shipments of war materials was held last night by the Deutscher Wehrverein. A resolution was adopted calling for discontinuance of export from Germany of goods particularly needed in America, such as dyestuffs, and limitation of imports from America as far as possible until the trade which is declared objectionable is stopped.

First Georgia Peaches Shipped to New York; Beats Record 3 Days

(By Associated Press.)

MACON, Ga., May 21.—Two crates of peaches, Mayflower variety, were shipped last night, one to New York and the other to Philadelphia, being the first of the year from the Georgia peach belt and three days earlier than previous records, James D. Fagan, of Fort Valley, is the farmer who shipped them. Carload lots go next week.

ALABAMIANS STUDYING GEORGIA CONVICT SYSTEM

Present Plan of Leasing Prisoners May Be Abolished by That State

With a view to ascertaining the advantages, both humanitarian and economic, brought about in Georgia by the abolition of the old system of leasing convicts and the installation of a new system of working them on the public roads, two members of the Alabama legislature, composing a special commission for this purpose, are in Atlanta.

The members of this commission are Senator J. T. Denson and Representative George H. Smith. They called at the office of the state prison commission Thursday afternoon and spent some time inquiring into the operations of the reform system which went into effect several years ago.

Friday these Alabama legislators, accompanied by Prison Commissioner E. L. Rainey, made an inspection of the convict camps in Fulton county and also the work now in progress. They will probably visit other counties in this state before making up their report, which they will submit at the next meeting of their legislature.

There is a strong movement in Alabama in favor of following Georgia's lead and abolishing the old system of leasing convicts. A number of other states have already done this.

ELEVEN JURORS ARE FOR COL. ROOSEVELT IN WM. BARNES' SUIT

Foreman Announces They Have Agreed, but on Roll Call One Juryman Declares He Is for Barnes

JUDGE THEN SENDS THEM BACK TO THEIR ROOM

More Than Eighteen Hours Have Been Spent in Effort to Reach Verdict in Suit for Libel

(By Associated Press.)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 21.—The jury in the Barnes-Roosevelt libel suit came in shortly before 11 o'clock today and the foreman announced that the jury had agreed on a verdict for the defendant.

When the roll was called by the clerk of the court eleven of the jurors said they were in favor of a verdict for the defendant, but the twelfth, Edward Burns, a Syracuse man, arose in his seat and said, "I am for the plaintiff."

Justice Andrews himself had been informed before the jury entered the room that a verdict had been found.

After Burns had dissented Justice Andrews sent the jury back to its room.

The foreman had reported that the jury stood unanimous in favor of a verdict for the defendant, in case the costs were split between the plaintiff and defendant.

The jury was trying to decide the question of costs and that alone. It was apparent when the roll was called that some of the jurors were in favor of dividing the costs, which at the most, it was said would amount to less than $1,500, while others were indifferent.

The libel law provides that the loser in a contest must pay the costs, and in the event it was said, of Juror Burns refusing to agree with his eleven companions, the costs would be split.

Shortly after 12:30 p. m. a recess was taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon with the jury still locked up considering the question of costs. A verdict, if any is found, cannot be returned before the opening of court this afternoon

FEARED SHERIFF WOULD HANG MAN GIVEN RESPITE

Legal Status of Washington County Negro Case Explained to Officer

Fearing that the sheriff of Washington county might not thoroughly recognize the powers of jurisdiction of the United States district court for the southern district of Georgia and hight in the face of a supersedeas granted by that court proceed to hang his client on the date set by the state courts, Attorney John R. Cooper, of Macon, on Thursday afternoon appealed to Governor Slaton to grant a respite for Robert Kitchens, under sentence to be hanged in the Sandersville jail Friday.

Kitchens, who was convicted of the murder of a white man, was recently refused executive clemency by the state prison commission and Governor Slaton. His accessory in the crime has already been hanged.

As a final resort Attorney Cooper appealed before Judge Emory Speer, of the United States district court at Macon, and applied for a writ of habeas corpus. Before this was granted, however, he asked Judge Speer for a supersedeas which would enable him to take the case to the United States supreme court. This was granted by Judge Speer, and of course acted as a stay of execution, but Mr. Cooper was apprehensive that the sheriff of Washington county might not so understand it. He, therefore, came to Atlanta and applied to Governor Slaton for a respite.

The Governor declined the application, explaining that the granting of a supersedeas by Judge Speer took the case out of the hands of the state and left him without authority to interfer. In order that there might be no misunderstanding the governor had Attorney General Grice telephone the legal status of the case so far as the state hortities were concerned.

The negro was not hanged Friday.

BRITISH IN ATLANTA TO CELEBRATE EMPIRE DAY

Interesting Program Will Be Rendered Monday at Ansley Hotel

Empire day will be celebrated by the British association of Atlanta with a concert and dance next Monday evening, May 24, at the Ansley hotel, beginning at 8 o'clock.

A very attractive program of songs, readings, etc., has been arranged by the program committee and a large attendance is expected.

Among those who will take part in the program are Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, Miss Edna Hollaway, Miss Irma Toland, Percy Layn, Miss Becky Beveridge, Mrs. Frank M. Pearson, Paul Sutton, Pat Harland, Mrs. Rulie Baker, J. W. Marshbank, Harry Davis and Mrs. Nora Cobb White.

Mrs. William Lawson Peel will introduce the various national features with lines of appropriate verse.

A. Gerard-Thiers will direct the musical numbers.

Rate Changes Denied

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Application of the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico and other railroads for authority to continue charging joint through rates on gravel from Ancharage, to Galveston, which are higher than the aggregate from the intermediate rates to and from Houston, was denied today by the interstate commerce commission.

Italy Is Now in War on Side Of Entente, Declares London

WILL IT BE THE LAST LEG?

BALKAN STATES ARE EXPECTED TO JUMP INTO THE WAR NEXT

Already Greece Is Recruiting "Gallipoli Armies," Declares London, and Other States Are Preparing to Help

SWITZERLAND TO ORDER GENERAL MOBILIZATION

20,000 Italians of Military Age in Germany Finding Difficulty in Getting Back Home Before Declaration

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 21.—It is universally conceded in England that Italy from today, enters into full partnership with the entente powers, and this means that the two Germanic nations, assisted by the Turks, find themselves facing seven European powers, not counting Portugal, with Japan in the background.

How long the Balkan states will refrain from joining in the fray is not known, but it is held here that this period of time must of necessity be comparatively brief.

The demands for compensation, territorial and otherwise of Rumania Bulgaria and Greece are in process of arrangement, according to well informed persons in London. Just at present the excessive claims as put forward by the states are being cut down.

Already reports are coming from Greece of more cordial relations between the court and former Premier Venizelos, which is only point toward war. "Gallipoli armies," already are in process of formation in some of the Balkan states, and the title sufficiently indicates the proposed scene of their activities.

Nothing yet has leaked out as to where the first Italian blow will be struck. Judging from previous experience, Italy probably will put into effect at once a system of censorship that will stand as a striking object lesson in many ways to the amateurs, in this field, Great Britain and France. Military observers believe the Italian advance will be bound to ease the tremendous Germanic pressure bearing today so heavily on the Russian forces on the Galician front.

Switzerland to Care for German Interests in Italy

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, was advised today by the Berlin foreign office that German diplomatic interests in Italy have been taken over by Switzerland.

Ultimatu mto Austria May Be Sent Today

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—So far as dispatches reaching this country from Rome indicates, Italy has not yet taken the final step to plunge her into war with Austria. Yesterday the Italian parliament gave the government full powers to act. Since then no news of any decisive developments has been received. It would appear the censorship is tightening up, for no news dispatches from Rome are being delayed.

A Geneva dispatch says Italy may send an ultimatum to Austria today, and that a declaration of war will come before the end of the week. A message from Rome to London says King Victor Emmanuel has signed a decree suspending the diplomatic immunity of the German and Austrian ambassadors to the vatican.

The Messagerro, one of the leading newspapers of Italy, states that after the Italian senate has met the cabinet probably will draft a declaration of war.

The Rome correspondent of the Havas agency telegraphs to Paris that Premier Salandra introduced in the senate today the bill passed by the chamber of deputies yesterday, conferring upon the government plenary powers in regard to the conduct of war.

"It is predicted that the senate will vote unanimously for the bill," the message adds.

On receiving the bill the senate decided unanimously to consider it as an emergency measure, and named a committee to make a report. This committee met immediately.

Italian Ministers to Draft Formal Declaration of War

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 21.—The Havas agency publishes this dispatch from Rome:

"The Messaggero declares the council of ministers will meet after the session of the senate and that the ministers probably will draft a formal declaration of war against Austria-Hungary."

Ultimatum to Be Sent to Austria During Day

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, May 20.—(Via Paris, May 21.)—An ultimatum from Italy to Austria will be presented today and a declaration of war before the end of the week, according to information received here from Rome.

Baron Von Macchie, the Austrian ambassador, is expected to leave Rome today. He and Yorky Bey, the Turkish ambassador, are ready to start at a moment's notice. Prince Von Buelow, the German ambassador, wired today to servants awaiting him at Chiasso that he had "postponed his return for a day or two."

There are about 20,000 Italians of military age in Germany and it is said the German authorities are placing every obstacle in the way of their return home. Hundreds are being stopped ev-

CONCRETE FOUNDATION FOR STREET CAR TRACKS

Mayor Signs Ordinance Requiring Power Company to Change System

Mayor Woodward Friday approved an ordinance passed at the last session of council requiring the Georgia Railway and Power company to lay a concrete foundation for its tracks wherever and whenever the city lays a permanent pavement on any street on which there are trolley tracks.

According to Alderman Albert Thomson, author of the ordinance, a concrete foundation for the trolley tracks will mitigate any damage done the pavement by the passage of cars over the tracks and will generally increase the life of a street pavement. It is a useless expenditure of the city's money, he says, to lay some pavements, wood block, for example, on a street where the trolleys are not on a concrete foundation.

The ordinary foundation used for the trolley tracks is one of crushed stone, and the company will be put to an expense of thousands of dollars each year to replace the stone foundation with concrete whenever the city lays a new pavement.

HITS CAR SCHEDULES.

The ordinance requires that no trolleys shall be operated over tracks where the concrete is being laid until the mixture has had time to properly dry and harden. It is estimated that this will require seven days and will result in the interruption of car schedules for a considerable time when a new pavement is being put down.

It is expected that the cost of concrete foundations is probably 40 per cent more than for the crushed stone, but the greater expense to the trolley company will come when the city lays a new street pavement where the foundation for the trolley tracks is comparatively new. In such a case the old foundation, although it may have a life of ten or fifteen years before it must be torn out and replaced with the concrete.

An ordinance similar to the one which has just become a law was introduced in last year's council by Alderman C. H. Kelley, but was sent to the street committee, and after a short hearing at which the power company opposed the measure, it was referred to a subcommittee, which never made a report.

Last Monday the new ordinance was introduced and passed at the same meeting.

ARKWRIGHT UNDECIDED.

President Preston S. Arkwright, of the power company, would not state Friday whether he expected to combat the legality of the measure in the courts or that he would ask council to reconsider its action in the matter.

"Since the Georgia Railway and Power company has to pay the bill," said Mr. Arkwright, "I regret very much that we were not given an opportunity of presenting our side of the matter, at least the opportunity of a hearing, before it was passed. Last year on practically the same ordinance we came before the street committee and after a partial hearing the measure was referred to a subcommittee. We attended the next two meetings of the committee, but it was not again considered."

ADJUTANT GENERAL NASH WILL HOLD POST, BELIEF

Governor-Elect Will Keep Him at Head of Militia, Report

Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash will, according to those in close touch with Governor-elect Nat E. Harris, be kept at the head of the state militia.

Those in position to know, without quoting or attempting to commit the governor-elect, express the confident opinion that there will be no immediate change in the adjutant general's office and that the probability is that General Nash will be retained in office throughout Governor Harris' term.

There are a number of applicants for the office of adjutant general but it is understood that the governor-elect feels that Adjutant General Nash has made a good official and that there is no occasion for a change.

POLICE OF NEW YORK PRAISED BY WILSON

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson was so pleased with the way he was guarded by the New York police during the review of the Atlantic fleet that he has authorized publication in the New York police bulletin of this statement:

"The appearance and the management and whole spirit of the police guard in New York the other day struck me as admirable. I believe the city has every reason to be proud of its force and of its present discipline and efficiency."

DUTCH BATTLESHIP TO REPAIR IN U. S.

(By Associated Press.)

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 21.—The Dutch battleship Heemskerck has been ordered from Curacao, Dutch West Indies, to Newport News for general overhauling, according to a cable message received today by the Dutch vice consul, Edj Luning. The Heemskerck is expected to reach this port June 4 and will be placed in dry dock at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company immediately.

Captain Coenen, commander of the Heemskerck, also occupies the high position of commander of the Caribbean area, having supervision of all the Dutch possessions in that territory.

JUDGE ROAN DID NOT BELIEVE FRANK GUILTY

So Declares Judge Arthur G Powell in Letter to Prison Commission

Judge Arthur G. Powell, the well known Atlanta lawyer and former judge of the state court of appeals, has written to Governor Slaton and the state prison board a letter declaring the late Judge Roan told him that he (Judge Roan) believed Leo M. Frank innocent of the murder of Mary Phagan, and expressing his (Judge Powell's) hope that Frank will either be pardoned or commuted to life imprisonment.

In the course of the letter Judge Powell says:

"I was an intimate friend of Judge Roan. If he were living I would not attempt to speak for him. Since his mouth is closed by death, I feel that it is due to him and to Frank that I should give you the benefit of what I know of how he felt as to the defendant's guilt.

"Frequently during the trial he advised with me, sending for me often to come to the court house. I cannot, with brevity, detail the conversations I had with him. The substance of what he told me is, that he did not believe the defendant to be guilty. He expressed this opinion, in substance, to me at varying times during the trial.

"At his request, I prepared portions of his charge to the jury. I mention this fact merely to show that I had opportunity of intimate knowledge of the state of his mind.

"Why, with these views, he did not grant the new trial, which from his conversation with me I fully expected him to grant, I do not know and cannot explain. I have known Judge Roan for a number of years, and I can say he was not himself during the trial and afterwards.

"Furthermore, I wish to say that I was present in court a number of times during the trial, and kept up tolerably well with the evidence. I had no interest in it. If I was theoretically interested it was on the side of the state, as my partner, Mr. Hooper, was engaged in the prosecution. What I saw of the trial convinced me that the defendant was innocent. To any critical mind there must be grave doubt of his guilt. As a citizen of the state, let me say that I hope he will be pardoned or that his sentence will be commuted.

"I can say further that I have recently been in various parts of south Georgia and have been surprised to find how strong and practically unanimous the sentiment there is against his being hanged, though there was considerable feeling against him in that section at the time of the trial.

"Respectfully,

"A. G. POWELL."

It is understood that a number of other well known Atlanta lawyers have also written to the prison commission in Frank's behalf.

Italian Warships Said to Have Entered Cattaro

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—A Paris dispatch says that Italy has struck the first blow by entering the Austrian port of Cattaro with her warships. No details.

Italian Green Book Winds Up by Breaking Treaty

PARIS, May 21.—A Havas dispatch from Rome says:

"The final document in the Green Book issued by the Italian government is the note sent by Foreign Minister Sonnino to the Duke of Avarna, Italian ambassador at Vienna, annulling the Triple Alliance. The note, which was communicated to Baron Burian, Austrian foreign minister, on May 4, closes with the following statement:

"'All efforts of the Italian government encounter the resistance of the Imperial Austrian government, which after several months decides to concede only the special interests of Italy in Avlona and to promise insufficient concession of territory in Trento—a concession which admits of no normal solution of the situation from an ethical, political or military point of view.

"'This concession, moreover, would not be accomplished except at an undetermined period; that is to say, only at the end of the war.

"'In view of this condition of affairs the Italian government must renounce the hope of reaching an agreement and sees itself constrained to withdraw all propositions of settlement. It is equally useless to give a formal appearance to an alliance which would be destined only to dissimulate a reality of continued mistrust and daily disagreements. That is why Italy, confident in its right, affirms and proclaims it will resume from now on its entire liberty of action and declares null and hereafter without effect its treaty with Austria-Hungary.'"

Brightest Day for Allies Since Battle of Marne

PARIS, May 21.—"The brightest day for the defenders of European liberties since the battle of the Marne," sums up the opinion of the French press on yesterday's events in Rome. All papers express enthusiasm at the prospect of France fighting again side by side with her old allies of Magenta and Solferino and that the decisive day should be the anniversary of the two battles of Montebello is hailed as an excellent omen.

The Matin sees in the Italian chamber's vote a brilliant victory for public opinion. The paper also regards Italy's present stand as an evidence of the failure of German diplomacy.

Berlin Paper Reviews Cause of Breach With the Italians

(By Associated Press.)

AMSTERDAM, via London, May 21.—It becomes increasingly clear after the death of Marquis San Giuliano, says the Nord Deutsche Allgemine Zeitung of Berlin, in giving a history of the negotiations with Italy, that strong forces were at work in Rome to bring special advantages from Austro-Hungary in exchange for the maintenance of neutrality by Italy. Germany, therefore, made every effort to bring about a friendly agreement between the two countries, but from the beginning negotiations were made difficult because Italy insisted territorial concessions should take effect immediately.

Italy first made known her demands on April 11. They included the absolute renunciation by Austria of Trent, including the German town of Bozen; a readjustment of the frontier along the Isonzo river; the inclusion of Triest in a new independent state, and the cession of the Curzolari archipelago together with recognition of her supreme interests in Albania.

In return Italy is said to have offered a lump sum of $10,000,000 for debt redemption and engaged to remain neutral as long as this war lasted.

Germany did its utmost to induce Italy to moderate its claims as it believed the unconditional acceptance of them would have affronted seriously the interests and dignity of Austria. While negotiations still were pending, however, the Italian ambassador at Vienna presented on May 4 an unexpected declaration that Italy regarded the triple alliance as having been broken by Austria's proceedings against Serbia in August. The ambassador declared he had been instructed to withdraw all offers made by his government. With regard to Germany the Italian government confined itself to bringing to the knowledge of Berlin the declaration presented at Vienna on May 4.

"The last attempt to prevent our former ally," says the newspaper, "from joining our enemies was made on May 10 by considerably extended promises on the part of Austria-Hungary, which the imperial chancellor read in the richstag on the 18th. After the presentation of these negotiations no green book can alter the fact that if Italy takes up arms against her previous allies she will be guilty of a breach of faith and trust and will be acting in order to gain increased power which was offered the Italian people with all possible guarantees, voluntarily, without bloodshed."

8,000 Italians in Pittsburg Ready to Return for War

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 21.—Eight thousand Italians in Pittsburg and vicinity are prepared to return their homes to join the colors in the event of a declaration of war between Italy and Austria, according to estimates made today by Italian leaders here. Joseph Natali, Italian consul in Pittsburg, said no official communication, however, had been received concerning a call for reservists so far. He said there are about 5,000 reservists in this Allegheny, county alone.

Berlin Papers Style Italy's Move as Treacherous One

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, (Via London, May 21.)—The morning papers publish long reports of the meeting yesterday of the Italian chamber of deputies. Few make editorial comment, but those which do take a resolute but unexcited attitude. The most prominent feeling expressed is relation at what is regarded as Italy's treachery in turning on a former ally.

TELEPHONE MEN ARE MEETNG IN MEMPHIS

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21.—Prominent officials of independent telephone associations throughout the country, together with a large number of dealers in electrical materials, met here today for the annual convention of the Tri-State Telephone association, which covers Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The convention this year will consider extending its territory to cover all the southern states and a change of name to that of the Southern States Telephone association. W. M. Bryant, of Mobile, Ala., is president of the Tri-State organization.

Among the prominent visitors are E. B. Palmer, Grand Rapids, Mich.; and W. S. Vivian, Chicago, president and secretary, respectively of the Independent Telephone association of America.

Mrs. Adkins Dead

FORT VALLEY, Ga., May 21.—The death of Mrs. Georgia A. Adkins occurred rather suddenly Wednesday afternoon at her home on Macon street and the funeral and interment took place Thursday afternoon, the remains being interred in Oak Lawn cemetery. Mrs. Adkins was the mother of several children, a number of whom reside here. Rev. J. A. Harmon, of the Methodist church here, conducted the funeral service.

ENEMY'S LOSS MORE THAN 210,000, SAYS CLAIM BY PETROGRAD

Many of the Italian reservists in this city returned to Italy in the early stages of the European war and a rush by New York Italians to return to Italy and enlist for the war is not anticipated among leading Italians.

104,000 Russians Captured Since May 1, Berlin Claims

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, May 21.—(Via London.)—The following statement was given out at the war office today:

"Western theater of war: North of Ypres colored French troops attacked our positions east of the canal during the night. The battle continues.

"British attacks in the late evening south of Neuve Chapelle, in the region of La Quinque street, broke down under our fire. Northeast of Arras we shot down an enemy flying machine at Forency.

"A further attack, begun yesterday by the French in the forest of Ailly, failed with considerable losses to the enemy, who left a few prisoners.

"Eastern theater of war: In the region of Shavli there were only minor engagements. On the Dubysa our attack east of Seduhin pushed Beslagola and gave us another 1,500 prisoners. East of Miloszajcie and Zemisola the Russians were driven back across the river. Further south the battle has come to a standstill. The remainder of the Russian forces which were defeated south of the Niemen are continuing their fight in the direction of Kovno.

"Southeastern theater of war: The situation is unchanged. Prisoners were taken yesterday east of Jaroslau who were not equipped with rifles, but with iron clubs.

"Since the first of May 104,000 prisoners, 72 cannon and 253 machine guns have been captured by the army under General MacKenzen and the other German troops fighting in the Austro-Hungarian army. These figures are included in the total figures already published."

London Says Russians May Abandon Przemysl for Strategy

LONDON, May 21.—The fighting south of Przemysl is so intense that in some quarters in London it is considered that "strategy may dictate the abandonment" of that fortress. Przemysl appears to be a dangerous salient of the new Russian line.

The most interesting feature of the last Russian official communication to British readers is the reported check given to the left wing of the German army, which, it is claimed, has been driven back beyond the river Iwanisika. It is pointed out here that this would seem to uncover the German flank, and if the movement can be pushed home English observers are arguing that it might have some effect on bringing the Teutonic advance to a standstill.

No information has been received here to confirm last night's report of a successful German attack of the Russian seaport of Niga. Some newspapers discredit the statement.

Political activities in London continue, but the composition of a new cabinet still is a matter of uncertainty.

Italy Does Not Yet Need Reservists From America

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Italians in the United States probably will not be called back to the colors unless the European war is to continue for another year. Italian officials here believe Italy has sufficient men in her home army to maintain a vigorous offensive against Austria.

The possibility that Italy's entrance in the war may compel peace in another six months is suggested in Italian quarters here as a reason for withholding any call for reservists resident in foreign countries until the necessity for them shall become apparent through the development of military operations.

German Steamer Ophelia Lawful Prize, Says Court

LONDON, May 21.—The prize court has decided that the German steamer Ophelia, captured in the North sea by the British destroyer Meteor October 18 and brought into Yarmouth was a lawful prize.

Germany protested that the capture violated The Hague convention, declaring the Ophelia was a hospital ship. The British government contended that the Ophelia only purported to be a hospital ship, and that, as a matter of fact she was masquerading under false colors for scouting purposes.

MR. RANDLE'S BODY TO BE BROUGHT TO ATLANTA

Former Atlantian Killed in Birmingham Thursday by Blow on the Head

The body of Mr. Charles D. Randle, a former Atlantian, who died Thursday in Birmingham, Ala., following a blow on the head, said to have been inflicted by a man named William Bailey, will be brought to Atlanta Saturday morning for funeral and interment.

Mr. Randle was forty-eight years old and was formerly an employe of the Atlanta Stove works. Surviving him are his wife; his mother, Mrs. M. C. Buice; four daughters, Mrs. Jesse Stalcut and Misses Mary Kate, Bossie Bell and Ava Randle, and son, Junius Randle.

The body will arrive about noon Saturday and will be carried direct from the station to Oakland cemetery, where funeral services and interment will take place.

Mr. Randle and Bailey are said to have engaged in a difficulty in which Mr. Randle received a blow on the head from which he died at a Birmingham hospital later. Bailey was arrested and is being held under a charge of assault to murder, according to dispatches from Birmingham.

W. O. W. PICNIC AT ASHBURN BIG EVENT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ASHBURN, Ga., May 21.—The first picnic of the Woodmen of the World Annual Picnic association was held in Shingler park, Ashburn, Ga., Thursday, May 20. The camps included were Camilla, Pelham, Sparks, Greenwood, Cordele, Henson, Cotton, Vada, Faircloth, Baconton, Greno, Lester, Bridgeboro, Sylvester, Shingler, Sycamore and Ashburn.

The event was largely a result of the work of Camilla camp, under the leadership of Escort E. H. Baggs. It was at his invitation that the other camps joined in. A special train was run from Camilla and other points and about 1,500 or 2,000 people attended.

It was shown that the order began in 1891 with a few members, but now has 108,250 camps with 682,447 members.

After a band concert the crowd enjoyed a barbecue and basket dinner provided by the camps and the local committee.

INSURANCE MAN FREED IN TRAL FOR FORGERY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 21.—Moye C. Dowling, former secretary and treasurer of the Atlantic States Life Insurance company, was found not guilty by a jury in superior court today. He was tried for forgery, it being charged that he forged minutes of the life insurance company.

D. H. Willard, vice president or the company and also the general manager, was charged with larceny after trust, and when his case was called he was not in court. His bond for $5,000, signed by W. J. Cooper and L. Carter, of Jesup, was forfeited.

Dowling is charged with larceny after trust also and this case against him, as an indictment in the county, together with thirteen counts on account of the failure of the Citizens' Trust company, of which he was vice president, will be called at the next term of court.

BAN ON VODKA HITS PAWN SHOPS HARD

(By Associated Press.)

MOSCOW, May 21.—Prohibition of the sale of vodka and other intoxicating drinks has effected a striking reduction in the business of the municipal pawnshops. Notwithstanding the high prices of foodstuffs and clothing entailed by the war, the population is steadily losing its dependence upon these institutions, as is shown by the following figures:

For the first quarter of 1914, the municipal pawnshops made 204,453 loans, aggregating $1,222,145.

During the corresponding quarter of the present year, there were contracted 128,010 loans, totalling $836,857.

BOND ELECTION WILL BE ASKED OF CITY COUNCIL

Special Committee Will Recommend That $3,150,000 Issue Be Voted On

The recommendation that council call an election to issue municipal bonds in the sum of $3,150,000 will be made that body next Monday in the report of the special bond committee of which Alderman Albert Thomson is chairman.

The proposed issue as agreed upon by the bond committee carries $1,000,000 for the erection of new buildings in the public school system including new high schools.

It also carries $1,000,000 for the completion of the city's trunk sewer system. Estimates obtained by Chairman Thomson show that it will take more than $1,200,000 to fully complete the sewerage system, but if the county commission does part of the work $1,000,000 will suffice.

The recommendation of the bond committee carries an item of $750,000 for the purchase of a new pump and other equipment for the water works department.

The issue of $300,000 bonds for a new annex and a nurses' dormitory at the Grady hospital is recommended.

One hundred thousand is recommended for the erection of a fireproof cyclorama building at Grant park. The committee decided not to recommend bonds for the improvement of the existing parks or for a chain of small parks in the central part of the city recommended by a number of real estate men headed by R. R. Otis.

The committee included an item of $150,000 to motorize the fire department. It decided not to ask the people to vote on bonds for two police sub-stations.

The report of the bond committee, with the recommendation by Councilman C. W. Smith that a bond commission of fifteen citizens to supervise the expenditure of the bond money be created will be submitted to council at a special session Monday. A majority of council members seem to favor bonds, and it is generally believed a bond election will be called.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION GIVES BANQUET MONDAY

British-Born Citizens of Atlanta Will Entertain at Ansley Hotel

The British association of Atlanta will entertain its members or candidates for membership with a banquet, concert and dance on Monday at the Hotel Ansley.

A. Gerard-Thiers, with a chorus of forty, will render selections, and on the program there will be selections from the composers and authors of England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales and Canada.

Mrs. John M. Slaton, Miss Becky Beveridge, Pat Harland, J. W. Marshbank, Miss Edna Holloway, Miss Irma Todd, Mrs. Nora Cobb White and Mrs. W. L. Peel will take part in the program.

Governor Slaton, Henry DeGive, the Belgian consul; Dr. F. E. May, the French consul, and Consul Brookfield, English consul at Savannah, will attend. The entertainment is open to British-born citizens of Atlanta and their descendants, and the tickets, which may be obtained from George Beveridge or R. J. MacDonald, are $1.50 each.

RAILROAD WORKERS TO SPEND DAY IN ATLANTA

Section Men of Georgia and A. & W. P. to Be Given Outing Saturday

Section hands and other laborers of the Georgia railroad and the Atlanta and West Point railroad will arrive in Atlanta Saturday morning by the hundreds with their children and women folk to enjoy a day in Atlanta as the guests of their roads.

Joe Billups, general passenger agent in Atlanta for both of the roads, has arranged for the day's amusements, which will be many.

A trolley ride to Grant park for all of the bunch—probably 500—a big barbecue on the railroad property near the park, a music by a band specially engaged for the affair will be some of the features of the occasion. But perhaps the biggest treat to the hands will be Atlanta itself; many of them, it is said, have never seen anything bigger than a country village.

NATIONAL BUILDERS INVITED TO ATLANTA

William Bernhardt Elected President of Atlanta Builders' Exchange

The Atlanta Builders' Exchange at its annual meeting Thursday night elected officers for the ensuing year and made plans for inviting the National Association of Builders' Exchanges to hold its annual convention in this city in 1917.

The association has a membership of more than 10,000 builders and its conventions are among the largest and most representative in the country.

Officers of the exchange elected Thursday night are Charles William Bernhardt, president, and B. Mifflin Hood, vice president.

The retiring president, J. T. Rose, and John MacIntyre, a visitor from Albany, N. Y., delivered addresses.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS AT VANDERBILT DINNER

Whiteford R. Cole and Dr. Edwin Mims Will Attend Celebration Here

Hon. Whitefoord R. Cole, president of the board of trust of Vanderbilt university and a distinguished alumnus of the institution, has accepted the invitation of the Georgia alumni of Vanderbilt to be one of its honor guests on the occasion of the Founders' day celebration in this city on the evening of next Thursday, May 27. Dr. Edwin Mims, professor of English at Vanderbilt and one of the noted scholars of the south, had already accepted an invitation to attend and to make an address. With these two distinguished sons of Vanderbilt present the Georgia celebration promises to be one of the largest and most enthusiastic in the whole country.

Invitations have gone out to Vanderbilt men all over Georgia and the indications are that they will attend in large numbers. The gathering will be held on the terrace of the Piedmont Driving club. Dr. Mims will be introduced by John A. Hynds, who was in the same class with him at Vanderbilt. Mr. Whiteford Cole will tell the alumni of some of the plans which the board of trust has on foot which means greater things for the university. James L. Mayson, city attorney, will speak on "Vanderbilt in the Eighties."

Another feature of the dinner will be the musical and cheer program, which will be in charge of Hamilton Douglas, Jr. Mr. Douglas is expected to inject some genuine varsity "pep" into the occasion.

All of the Vanderbilt men in the state who have not already done so, are requested to send their acceptances at once to the treasurer, Hinton J. Hopkins, Hurt building, Atlanta.

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY HAVING COMMENCEMENT

The commencement exercises of the Atlanta university began on Thursday and will continue through Wednesday, May 26. As a part of the commencement program the senior class will present John Bunin's "Damon and Pythias" Friday night.

In connection with the exercises the twentieth Atlanta conference for the study of the negro problem is being held. The principal addresses will be delivered by Rev. Frederick H. Means, of Maine; Dr. George E. Haynes, of Nashville, and President E. T. Ware, of Atlanta university.

TENNESSEE ROUTES FOR HIGHWAY ARE DISCUSSED

Contesting Delegations Present Their Claims Before Commissioners

(By Associated Press.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—Having heard Thursday from delegations representing the various routes in Florida and Georgia which are contesting for the Dixie highway, the commissioners this morning took up the contesting Tennessee routes, of which there are quite a number, and began hearing from their delegations. The Tennessee routes occupied practically all of the morning session.

After disposing of Tennessee the commission will take up Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois in the order named, hearing arguments in favor of all the many routes being urged between the fixed points on the highway.

Now that the contest between Rome and Dalton, in Georgia, has been disposed of so far as arguments before the commission are concerned, the contest attracting most attention is that between Louisville and Cincinnati. Both cities have strong delegations and brass bands in Chattanooga to boost their respective routes and both will present eloquent speakers to the commission to argue their merits.

At caucuses of the delegations held last night to formulate plans of campaign, a working coalition is said to have been arranged between Louisville and Nashville, which will insist on the highway taking the westerly route, and between Cincinnati and Lexington, Ky., which will press the claims of the famous Kentucky "blue grass route."

Most of the Georgia and Florida delegations have left Chattanooga, large numbers going out on trains Thursday night and others leaving in automobiles this morning.

The session today showed apparently no diminution of enthusiasm on the part of the good roads advocates from that which characterized yesterday's meetings. Arguments on behalf of three routes through Tennessee—the Nashville, the Central and Eastern Tennessee routes—were presented, with claims of advocates for varying sections of roadway connected with the main line.

Congressman Joseph W. Byrne, and Major E. E. Stapleman, of Nashville, led the fight for the route through that city. They asserted that Nashville was on the tentative route of the Dixie Highway when the project originally was proposed and that a large part of the road has been constructed, much of it being hard surfaced highway. The speakers setforth the scenic and historic attractions along the route including the homes of Andrew Jackson and James K. Polk and the battlefields of Nashville and Murfreesboro.

Scott Pope of Pikeville arguing for the central road presented figures to show the central line between Chattanooga and Louisville would be 105 miles shorter than the Nashville route and 77 miles shorter than the eastern Tennessee road. He declared that in five counties that would be traversed by the central route bond issues for road building approximating $500,000 have been authorized and sold.

Speaking for the eastern route A. E. Sandford, of Knoxville, said there were two good roads from Chattanooga to Knoxville and that more than $1,500,000 is being expended on roads in the counties on the Chattanooga-Knoxville-Jellico line.

The commission granted time to N. S. Remine, Bristol, Va., who presented a request from that state asking that the highway be routed via Knoxville, and that the commission permit a branch road to be constructed from that point to Bristol, Roanoke and other Virginia points.

Deaths and Funerals

MR. GEORGE W. WILEY.

Mr. George W. Wiley, seventy years old, died at his home on the McDonough road Thursday. He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Mrs. W. F. Nunn, Mrs. D. F. Tippins and Miss Ruth Wiley. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at Marvin church and the interment was in the church yard.

MRS. BESSIE STARNES.

Mrs. Bessie Starnes, twenty-two years old, died at her home, 44 Larkin street, Thursday. She is survived by her husband, J. E. Starnes, and one child. The funeral was held at 2:30 o'clock at the grave in Akridge's cemetery.

ELEANOR ROBINSON.

Eleanor Robinson, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Robinson, of South Carolina, died at a private sanitarium Thursday evening. The body was removed to Harry G. Poole's chapel and will be taken to Walhollow, S. C., Saturday morning for funeral and interment.

FUNERAL OF MRS. AKRIDGE.

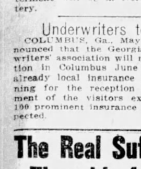
The funeral of Mrs. Beulah May Akridge, who died Thursday morning, will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the residence, 60 Newport street. Interment will be in North View cemetery.

Underwriters to Meet

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 21.—It is announced that the Georgia State Underwriters' association will meet in convention in Columbus June 4 and 5, and already local insurance men are planning for the reception and entertainment of the visitors expected. About 100 prominent insurance writers are expected.

The Real Suffrage Thought of Women

Motherhood is the thought uppermost in woman's mind. And with it, of course, comes the question of comfort, of helpful aids and influences. Among the best of these is a well known external remedy, "Mother's Friend." It is gently applied to the surface muscles. These are lubricated, toned, made pliable so they stretch as nature requires without the strain and pain on cords and ligaments. This influence extends through the myriad of nerves to deeper surfaces, the internal organs. And thus a period of repose must reflect itself not only in the mind of the mother, but upon the babe to come.



Young mothers who have used "Mother's Friend" have written to say how rejoiced they were at the absence of morning sickness, extreme nervousness, and other distresses of which they had heard and feared. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at any drug store. Simply apply it over the stomach muscles and rest assured of perfect safety and comfort day and night. Write to Bradfield Regulator, 403 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their handsome and instructive book.

SECRETARIAL STAFF OF Governor-elect Harris. The new governor has selected for his secretaries two young men of ability and wide popularity. Above is Raymonde Stapleton, prominent young Elberton attorney, who is to be the governor's executive secretary. Below is F. R. Jones, well-known Macon insurance man, who is to be private secretary.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS MEET IN GAINESVILLE

Grand Council of U. C. T. Given Great Welcome in Mountain City

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 21.—The grand council of the United Commercial Travelers, Georgia-Florida division, convened in Gainesville and was called to order at the opening session by Senior Counselor J. M. Keely, of Tampa, Fla. Hon. J. B. Rudolph, mayor of Gainesville, delivered the welcome address, and Hon. Frank S. Gainard, supreme junior counselor, of Ann Arbor, Mich., made the chief address in response.

Mr. Gainard becomes the supreme senior counselor of the order in June of this year.

The city of Gainesville is decorated with U. C. T. colors and American flags. The delegates were met at the depots with a brass band and decorated autos. The Bagmen of Bagdad, a side degree of the U. C. T. marched in parade on the public square.

By special request Roland Rowe, editor of the Firing Line of The Atlanta Journal, gave an address, speaking on the courage and cheerfulness of the traveling men during the past season and during financial and business depression of the country. His speech was received with enthusiasm.

The grand council today passed a resolution indorsing the neutrality policy of President Wilson and his attitude in maintaining the dignity and honor of the nation in this, the greatest crisis of our nation's history.

An entertainment by the Brenau voice department, a Japanese operetta, was given in honor of the U. C. T., followed by a reception which was heartily enjoyed. Tonight the Gainesville Dramatic club will produce "The Truth" for the benefit of the U. C. T. It will be followed by a ball in honor of the guests of the city at Riverside Military academy.

GOVERNOR WILL DELIVER 2 SPEECHES NEXT WEEK

Will Deliver Address at Quitman May 25 and at Warrenton May 28

Although he is very busy preparing his farewell message to the legislature and getting other affairs in shape for the meeting of that body, Governor Slaton has accepted invitations to deliver two addresses next week.

May 25 he will speak at Quitman to those attending the big animal industry convention, and May 28 he will deliver an address at Warrenton on the occasion of that city's "get-together day."

The governor has recently been compelled to decline numerous invitations to deliver addresses, but the invitations from Quitman and Warrenton were of such an insistent nature and were signed by so many individuals and officials of Brooks and Warren counties, that he felt he could not refuse to accept them.

FT. VALLEY SCHOOL PRESENTS A PLAY

FORT VALLEY, Ga., May 21.—The primary department of the Fort Valley public school presented a most attractive entertainment Wednesday evening in the school auditorium. The affair was coached by Miss Mary Hale, the primary teacher, and was largely attended and much enjoyed. The graduating exercises of the Fort Valley High school will take place next week.

THEATERS

The George East act at the Forsyth theater this week is heralded far and wide as the most stunning tabloid production on the American stage. The extra added attraction is Ruth Roye, the "princess of ragtime," "Broadway Love," a delightful drama revolving around the private life of two chorus girls, is the offering of Gladys Alexander and Vivian Murray. Other star acts are the Great Ismed, the pianist sensation; the Three Leightons, minstrelsy, music and comedy; the Misses Subrey and Rich, beauty, costumes, songs and dances, and Hanlon and Clifton, "The Unexpected in acrobatics. Next week comes an illustrious bill headed by "The War Brides," the talk of the vaudeville world.

The Grand is attaining national recognition as the most capably managed moving picture theater in the south. During the week it has done a record-breaking business, with its mammoth picture programs. Today and tomorrow it offers the startling Paramount releases, "Bootles' Baby" and "The Man on the Case." Both pictures are alluring dramas and first releases. "The Man on the Case" is a thrilling detective drama played by an elaborate Paramount cast, and "Bootles' Baby" is one of the most touching comedy dramas ever filmed.

"The Lure of the Mask," a highly entertaining adaptation in photo-drama form taken from Harold MacGrath's novel, will be the attraction at the Strand for Friday only. It is in four parts and is the first release that Harold Lockwood has appeared in since joining the American forces. Ella Jane Wilson's portrayal of the leading part has been very highly complimented by those who have seen the picture. Irving Cummings, the versatile leading man in the picture, gives one of the best performances of his life as the villainous prince. He apparently risks life and limb with careless disregard of his own safety.

PLAY TO BE PRESENTED FOR AID OF VETERANS

Ladies Auxiliary of Camp Walker Will Raise Fund for Reunion Trip

The ladies' auxiliary of Camp W. H. T. Walker, United Confederate veterans, in conjunction with the Children of the Confederacy, will present "The Iron Hand," a delightful comedy drama, at the Atlanta theater next Tuesday evening for the purpose of raising funds to send veterans of this camp to the reunion at Richmond.

Miss Vivian Mathis, a very talented young elocutionist, is directing the rehearsals and will give a reading between acts. Also between acts there will be songs by Miss Florence Milner and Mrs. Lucile Ross Baker, as well as selections by a quartet composed of Dan Stephens, Clarence Albree, Alec Webster and Robert Parks.

Those who will take part in the play are Miss Elvina Neal, Miss Gwynelle Howell, Mrs. Charles Sheldon, Sr., Miss Lila Parks, R. O. Holton, Edwin Moore Pollard, Hans Seyd, George Walker and Dan Stephens.

Successful Chautauqua

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 21.—The Columbus chautauqua is proving a great success from every viewpoint. It was announced last night at the big tent that near $1,000 over the guarantee had been taken in and that the financial side of the affair had proved far better than had been expected. The chautauqua ends with the appearance of Alice Neilson on Monday evening next.

LIQUOR QUESTION STIRS PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY

Protest Against Indorsing National Prohibition Arouses Intense Interest

NEWPORT NEWS Va., May 21.—A formal protest against the action of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the south in going on record as in favor of national prohibition was entered at the morning session of the assembly here today by the Transylvania Presbytery of Kentucky. The protest came unexpectedly and aroused intense interest. Heated discussion on the floor of the assembly is anticipated when the committee on bills and overtures, to which it was referred, makes its report.

The general assembly, at the last annual session in Kansas City, adopted a resolution advocating national prohibition and at that time a large number of the commissioners signed a formal protest against such action on the ground that it was in violation of the constitution of the church. In its protest today the Transylvania Presbytery went into detail and pointed out wherein the constitution was violated according to its views.

It is held that the general assembly is prohibited by the constitution from dealing in politics further than to advise or to petition and that it has no right to advocate political issues. The Transylvania's protest called the attention of the assembly to the action of the 1911 convention, when a resolution requesting that a stand be taken in favor of national prohibition was presented by the Transylvania Presbytery but was thrown out by the assembly as not in keeping with the constitution of the church.

The committee on bills and overtures may uphold the protest in its report or may recommend that it be treated merely as information and no action taken on it. In either case, it is said, there will be prolonged discussion. Commissioners from other Presbyteries are understood also to oppose advocacy of national prohibition by the general assembly.

Today's program for the general assembly included devotional services beginning at 9 o'clock, a business session immediately following, a trip by the assembly in a body to the Hampton Normal and Agricultural school at Hampton, Va., and an evangelistic meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

The feature of this morning's business session will be the reading of the report of Rev. H. F. Miley, D. D., superintendent of evangelism.

This report will be heard with even greater interest because of the following facts of encouragement in evangelistic work. During the year just closer 20,156 members have been added to the churches of the assembly on profession of faith, against 16,149 the year previous—an increase of 4,007. The total membership of the church is now 332,339, giving a net increase of 21,727 for the year.

Overtures from the presbyteries and synods will be submitted immediately upon the opening of the business session, followed by the appointment of committees to which the overtures will be referred.

This afternoon the commissioners will board special cars for the trip to Hampton, where they will be shown over the big colored institution and be entertained at lunch.

Rev. F. T. McFaden, D. D., of Richmond, Va., will preside over the session tonight. Addresses will be delivered as follows:

"The Simultaneous Denominational City Campaign," Rev. William Crowe, D. D., of Memphis, Tenn.

"The Evangelistic Program for the Presbytery," Rev. D. P. McGeachy, of Lewisburg, W. Va.

"The Pastor as Volunteer Evangelist," Rev. A. Bryan, Birmingham, Ala.

"Personal Evangelism," Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden, D. D., Atlanta, Ga.

MORE MINISTERS URGED.

The report of the executive committee of Christian education and ministerial relief urges the need for more ministers. During the year it says sixty-four young men will be graduated from theological seminaries, but more than thirty ministers have been removed by death during the year and eleven have been retired on account of sickness or age. During the year, the report says, the committee aided 309 candidates for the ministry who are in school.

During the year, the report says, aid has been given, through the channel of ministerial relief, to sixty-two ministers, one hundred and forty-six widows and twenty-three orphans. These beneficiaries represent 221 homes. The total amount granted to beneficiaries the past year was $43,436.600, or $4,712.93 more than last year.

The average assistance rendered the twenty-four ministers on the honorably retired roll is $327.08 per year; the average paid to the thirty-two other ministers who are beneficiaries $249.40; the average to the one hundred and forty-six widows $162.10; and the average to the twenty-three orphans $82.72.

The executive committee on publications and Sabbath school work reports a gain of $10,000 in the sales of the book and periodical department during the year and that the committee published a greater number of tracts and books than in any previous year in its history.

The report says that plans have been perfected for publication of a series of department graded Sabbath school periodicals in counjunction with five other Presbyterian and reformed churches in the United States and Canada, adding eight new publications to the committee's present list of fourteen.

Under the committee's direction, the report adds, two new buildings have been erected—one in Richmond as the home of the committee east of the Mississippi, and one at Texarkana as its home in the west.

CHURCH MEMBERSHIP.

The home missions committee reports that additions to the membership of the church through efforts of the committee have shown an increase of 50 per cent during the year.

These additions numbered about 4,500 in the year just closed.

Receipts for home missions were $167,566.42, or $1,104.43 less than last year. Contributions of churches and societies increased.

The report recommends that the church contribute sufficient money to place an efficient Presbyterian pastor in charge of all weak and vacant churches in each presbytery and that he give them his personal attention until they pass through their critical periods.

The work of the committee on the frontier, in the mountain missions in the mountain mission schools and among the foreign speaking people of the south is meeting with pronounced success, says the report. Mountain mission schools supported in whole or in part by the assembly's home missions now number 34, with 96 teachers and an enrollment of more than 2,000 students. The committee has given hearty approval to the Ellen Wilson memorial fund for the Christian education of mountain youths.

Work among foreigners include support of 74 missionaries who minister to 84 churches, with a total membership of 3,313, and with church property and equipment valued at $130,500.

During the year membership of negro churches increased 6 per cent. The total membership of the 71 negro churches now is 2,800.

This morning's session of the assembly was featured by the report on evangelism submitted by the superintendent of this branch of the church, Rev. H. F. Miley D. D.

Dr. Miley's report showed that great progress had been made during the year just closed and the work of evangelism was being pushed with entire satisfaction. His report was received with interest and the superintendent lauded for his successful efforts.

Reports From Boards Considered by Assembly

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21.—Reports from the boards of missions and church erection, education, publication and ministerial relief were considered today by the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, in session here.

Breaking away from the precedent of all previous sessions, the commissioners late yesterday elected William Clark, an elder, of Jefferson, Tex., as moderator. He succeeded Rev. F. A. Brown, of Oklahoma. Heretofore only clerical delegates have been selected to preside over the deliberations of the assembly.

The woman's missionary convention, an auxiliary to the general assembly, also was in session today.

Presbyterians Holding Meeting in Rochester

(By Associated Press.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 21.—The 127th general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States today perfected its organization by appointment of standing committees, and considered reports of the committee on evangelism, executive committee and the committee on Christian life and work.

Tonight a popular meeting in behalf of Sunday school work will be held.

ENTRIES ANNOUNCED FOR "SEEING GEORGIA" TOUR

More Than Sixty Autos Will Leave on Five-Day Trip Saturday

At 9 o'clock Saturday morning, with the Georgia Tech band playing and flags waving from every car, over sixty automobiles will leave the corner of Auburn avenue and Pryor street for the five-day "Seeing Georgia" tour promoted by the Georgia chamber of commerce.

The cars will start lining up before 7 o'clock. Every car has been provided with a number giving its place in line. Cars must be in line before 8 o'clock or they will have to take positions in the rear.

The start will be a parade in itself. The Tech band and a number of local motorists will escort the tourists along Peachtree and Whitehall street to Mitchell street to Peters street to West End. The road then leads through College Park to Newnan, the first stop, and then off through the most interesting and prosperous sections of the state.

A. M. Smith, general secretary in charge of the entries, announces the following motorists who will make the trip:

W. J. Stoddard, pacemaker; C. J. Haden, president Georgia chamber of commerce; W. J. Dabney, Decatur, chairman general committee; Studebaker Corporation, three official cars for use of Georgia chamber of commerce, and one car for representatives of the factory; T. R. FORT GAINES SCHOOL CLOSES ITS YEAR

FORT GAINES, Ga., May 21.—The commencement exercises of the Fort Gaines High school will begin next Sunday with a sermon by Rev. D. J. Blackwell, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Eufaula, Ala. Monday evening the school will give a play and on Tuesday evening the graduating exercises will be held. Hon. Byron R. Collins, of Blakely, will deliver the literary address, while Prof. J. W. Rish will deliver diplomas to Misses Lottie Lee Best, Bessie Lou Chitty, Mary Linda Graham, Ruby Killingsworth, Annie Susie McAllister, Hope McKissick and James Lovett Graham, Henry Thomas Killingsworth and Marvin Sanford Wimberly. All the above graduates intend to enter colleges of the state.

STOCKADE ESCAPE IS GIVEN HEAVY FINE

Henry McCann, colored, a captured "escaper" from the stockade, was fined $15.75, according to the usual custom in such cases, for larceny of the striped suit he wore, and was also fined $15.75 for escaping. Each of these fines carries with it the alternative of thirty days which McCann will have to serve in addition to his original sentence if he doesn't pay the fines.

Lyerly School Closes

LYERLY, Ga., May 21.—The closing exercises of the Lyerly High school were held at the academy in West Lyerly on Thursday and Friday of this week. The exercises marked the closing of one of the most sucessful school terms in the history of the schol. It also marked the closing of school terms in the old academy building, since the fall term of the school will be held in the new $10,000 school building, which is now nearing completion.

MAY BUY AEROPLANES FOR USE OF MILITIA

Aero Club of America Plans to Raise Fund by Public Subscription

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—President Alan R. Hawley, of the Aero club of America, announced today that a public subscription has been started by the governors of that club to acquire funds with which to purchase a squadron of aeroplanes for the use of the militia of each state in this country. It is proposed also to provide one hundred aeroplanes for carrying mail with the understanding that the machines and aviators will constitute a reserve for military service in case of national need.

The subscription, it is stated, is intended to be an application of the plans put into effect in Germany and France in 1912 and 1913 by which in each country upward of one million dollars was obtained.

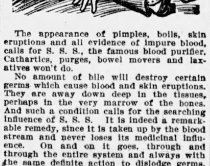
Stagnant Blood Given A Quick Impulse

Wonderful Activity Imparted by a Famous Remedy.



The appearance of pimples, boils, skin eruptions and all evidence of impure blood, calls for S. S. S., the famous blood purifier. Cathartics, purges, bowel movers and laxatives won't do.

No amount of bile will destroy certain germs which cause blood and skin eruptions. They are away down deep in the tissues, perhaps in the very marrow of the bones. And such a condition calls for the searching influence of S. S. S. It is indeed a remarkable remedy, since it is taken up by the blood stream and never loses its medicinal influence. On and on it goes, through and through the entire system and always with the same definite action to dislodge germs, destroy their activity and stimulate the liver, lungs, kidneys, bowels and skin to throw them out completely.

It stimulates stagnant blood, provides a rational exhilaration to the nerve centers and thereby the natural functions of the body are aroused to cast out intruders, no matter how strongly intrenched they may be. It refutes the ancient theory that to destroy within us the germs that eat into our vitals calls for drugs that destroy our very existence. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist and for special advice on severe blood disorders write at once to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 103 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not accept a substitute. Insist upon what you ask for.

REPEAT ORDERS from FIRMS WHO KNOW MOTOR TRUCKS

THE great oil companies of America were one of the first big lines of business to use motor trucks extensively. Naturally, then, these companies are probably more familiar with the good and bad points of the various motor trucks than any other important line of business. The Gulf Refining Company has purchased 135 White Trucks.

¶ In May, 1913, the great oil companies operated a total of 150 White Trucks.

¶ In May, 1915, these same oil companies had increased their White Truck equipment to more than 470, an increase of over three hundred and twenty White Trucks during the past two years.

$49,000 DEFICIT FACED BY FINANCE COMMITTEE

Money Must Be Found or Appropriations for Improvements Must Be Cut

Statistics made up by Chairman A. W. Farlinger, of the council finance committee, and B. G. West, of the city comptroller's office, show that a deficit of $49,000 must be faced by the finance committee when it meets Monday to begin work on the June apportionment sheet.

This does not mean that the city will not earn the revenue anticipated when the January or tentative budget was fixed, for the figures show that it will certainly come within a few thousand dollars of reaching the estimate, but many of the departments declare they must have additional appropriations.

Several of the departments, which have horses for instance, show that in January a sufficient amount of money for forage was not appropriated, and items like this must be considered. As a result the figures of Chairman Farlinger and Mr. West, which were submitted to the mayor Friday, show the $49,000 deficit.

The total revenue estimated in January, with expenditures to balance it, was $4,878,530. The estimate made up Friday increases the disbursement side by $49,000, leaving up to the finance committee to find that much more money or cut appropriations for improvements.

SAFE TO BE SEARCHED FOR MR. HIGHT'S WILL

$86,000 Worth of Bonds Turned Over Friday to Mrs. Hight's Lawyer

In their search for the will of Mr. Emmett Hight, the Atlanta real estate man who died this week, attorneys who represented him before his death and attorneys for Mrs. Carrie Deaton Hight, his widow, found $86,000 worth of bonds in Mr. Hight's office in the Empire building Thursday.

Reuben R. Arnold, Mrs. Hight's attorney, and James A. Branch, of Moore & Branch, and Paul Bartlett, who were Mr. Hight's lawyers, searched the office thoroughly with the exception of the safe. While the will was not found, a small filing cabinet contained the bonds, $40,000 of which were city of Atlanta bonds, $21,000 local bank bonds and the remainder national bonds. They were turned over to Attorney Arnold.

It is believed now that if Mr. Hight left a will, it is in the safe and attorneys have arranged to have this opened by a locksmith Saturday.

EGG CASE IS NOW IN THE HANDS OF JURY

Does Storage of Meat Near Eggs Injure Them, Question at Issue

After a hearing lasting three weeks a jury in Judge George L. Bell's division of the superior court began to deliberate at 10 o'clock Friday on the question as to whether or not 636,120 eggs, stored in an ice plant, for several months deteriorated in value because of their proximinaty to cases of fruits and vegetables and meats.

The Swift Packing company, owners of the eggs, claimed in the court that the eggs had deteriorated in value to the extent of $5,500 because, after their long stay in the cold storage plant they tasted like the meats and vegetables near which they are alleged to have been stored.

The suit started when the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation filed a claim against the Swift company for $800, an alleged unpaid balance on the storage fee.

The packing company brought the counter suit claiming the eggs should not have been stored near the vegetables.

At 2 o'clock the jury had not returned a verdict. The Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation is represented by Attorneys C. T. Hopkins and W. D. Jones; the Swift company by H. C. Peeples.

Convict Pardoned

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 21.—Simon Bryant, negro convict who has been a servant in the state capitol for eleven months, was granted a parole by Governor Henderson yesterday afternoon, conditioned on his future good conduct. Bryant has served ten years for murder committed in Geneva county. When he received his parole from the convict department he kissed it and declared that he already had obtained a position as carpenter, in Montgomery at $3 a day.

Bryant lost his eye while working for the state.

Safety First
In Buying a Piano

Here Is a Piano Store That Offers the Genuine Advantages of Fractional Payments

A friend informed us that his wife had bought a piano for four hundred dollars. Later she examined a piano here that she could have bought for three hundred twenty-five dollars, that she liked better.

His remark was: "You see, my wife not only bought a piano, she bought credit as well, and paid a rather good price for them."

The fractional payment plan that this Piano Store works on does not involve the payment of one penny of tribute.

Our prices are the same for extended payments as for cash—and you may fix the period or periods of payment to suit your personal convenience.

And since this system of payment—giving us a fraction of the purchase price until the indebtedness has been wiped out—is in force, on pianos of such quality as we offer there is little reason for one to make the mistake of the above woman.

The Starr $375 to $525, The Richmond $325, The Trayser $290 to $325, The Remington $265.

A Day of Double Opportunities In the Millinery

A Fresh Display of Midsummer Hats

The Chief of the Staff of the Millinery Section is just back from New York with hats that grace the smart shops of the metropolis. Tomorrow, then, a display that effectively depicts the fashions!

——You shall see the smart all-white hats, the smart black transparent hats, the smart black-and-white hats, the smart pink-and-white, and black-and-white hats.

——You shall see the tiny bits of oblong turbans, the large hats with frilled or otherwise softened brims.

——You shall see how feathers and wings are used in the present-day way.

——You shall see the new little "tickler" trimming—and a world of good-looking sports hats in golfine, ratine and Palm Beach cloth.

Authentic—authoritative.

And One Hundred Two Hats In a Sale at $2.50

That they were originally $10.00 and $12.00 tells their story!—though most of them were in a recent $5.00 sale.

But this is a sale put forward on the calendar of events—the savings, therefore, come at a more opportune time than in former years—that those who require another hat for morning and street wear, for about-to-begin vacations, may profit.

About every color and every shape and every size. It will be a matter of but a few moments to find a becoming one.

New Words From the War.

Science, invention, discovery and slang itself are fruitful sources of language, but just now the most enriching influence on English is war. The Literary Digest observes that while the vernacular of the streets is more or less slow in winning approbation that of the trenches "comes with a bound and bids fair to establish itself permanently." It is noteworthy in this regard that two centuries ago such words as corps, commandant, marauding and defiles were considered very questionable English, and Addison, in the Spectator, spoke with gentle irony of pontoons and reconnoitered. The London Times recalls that the Napoleonic wars introduced a number of new words, among them being bluchers, and that from the Boer war came such terms as trek, commandeer, kopje and spruit.

Of more immediate interest, is the Times' list of words coined in the present war. Boche, it seems, is used both by British and French soldiers as a sneering synonym for a German. Degommer, meaning literally "to take the gum out of," now signifies "to dismiss from a post. Liaison, as the Times notes, has been used heretofore in the culinary sense and in the amorous sense, but now it is being used in a military sense also: "an officer de liaison means a staff officer charged with the duty of linking together different armies or units." The French are proving themselves more inventive verbally than the English. Of their new words, we have this account:

Poilu has only reached its general meaning of 'a soldier' since the beginning of the war; before that it had not advanced far from its original sense of 'hairy' and so 'sturdy.' The 'handy-man,' as a term for a bluejacket, is an interesting parallel. Marmite, which means 'a saucpean,' has now been generally accepted as 'a heavy shell.' Less known is zigouiller, which has been adopted from the vocabulary of the Apache. It is an expressive word and means to 'stick a knife into,' to 'do one.' Another imaginative word is crapouillot, which means 'a little toad,' and has been hit upon as a suitable name for the squat, little trench mortar. Artiflot is 'a gunner;' it is a combination of artilleur and fiflot, which means 'a common soldier.' Boulot, which suggests a log of wood, has come to mean 'work;' faire du bon boulot is 'to do good work,' the original idea being probably that of sawing. There are many more to be culled from soldiers' letters, or from the extracts published from the trench newspapers, of which there are now quite a number. The best-known is the Echo des Marmites, which is produced somewhere near Reims."

American speech so far has reflected the war but slightly, though we are now using glibly enough a number of military, naval and geographic terms that were uncommon a year ago, and we have acquired rather a definite idea of "Kultur."

The Italian organ grinders will be present to furnish the national airs.

What Authorities Say.

Two world-reputed authorities on international law, Mr. John Bassett Moore and Mr. T. J. Lawrence, are quoted by the Augusta Chronicle in its interesting discussion of a belligerent's right to sink an enemy merchant vessel. Says Mr. Moore:

"A prize may be burned or sunk in five cases: (1) When, because of the bad condition of the vessel and the state of the weather, she can not be kept afloat; (2) when she can not keep up with the man-of-war and may easily be retaken by the enemy; (3) when the approach of a superior enemy force creates fear of recapture; (4) when the captor can not put aboard a prize crew without dangerously depleting his own; (5) when the nearest port to which the vessel may possibly be taken is very remote. In any case the captor must remove the persons on board, and as much as possible of the cargo."

Of the same purport, is Mr. Lawrence's statement:

"If hailing is impossible, or if the suspected vessel takes no notice of it, the chasing cruiser may signal her to bring to by using blank cartridges, and then, if necessary, sending a shot across her bows. . . . Any other signal likely to be understood is equally lawful, but some unmistakable summons is necessary. Not till it has been given and disregarded is the use of force allowed. . . . A commanding officer who can not spare a prize crew may order an enemy merchantman to haul down her flag and follow him on pain of being sunk by gunfire or torpedo."

Both authorities leave no doubt as to the duty of the attacking vessel giving unmistakable summons and of removing the persons aboard the enemy ship before proceeding to destroy it. The Chronicle aptly remarks that from the language of these opinions it is evident that submarine war was not contemplated when the rules and usages referred to were adopted. But a change in methods of warfare does not cancel international agreements; certainly it does not release a party to such agreements from obligations of honor and conscience and humanity.

Progress, as we understand it, does not exist. We make progress, but in a circle only, returning to the starting place. Witness 100 years of civilization's progress from the Napoleonic to the present war.

Pan-American Friendship.

"The war has done more than any other political influence, since the declaration of the Monroe Doctrine in 1823, to promote Pan-American solidarity and to emphasize the importance of the common interests of the western republics."

This interesting statement by Mr. John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American Union, is amply supported by conditions and tendencies. Within the last nine months North Americans and South Americans have been drawn into relationships closer than ever before. South Americans found themselves suddenly cut off from the Old World's commerce and finance. Markets to which they had sold millions of dollars' worth of goods annually were closed. European banks to which they had looked for loans in promoting home enterprises suspended the accustomed service. Naturally, they turned to the United States for new markets and new credit facilities.

At the same time the merchants and manufacturers and bankers of North America realized more keenly than ever the opportunities of South American trade; and they realized that the only sure and permanent means of winning that trade lay in broad policies of service. As a result, leading business houses in the United States began a systematic study of Latin American needs and tastes; leading banking houses established branches at important South American points. A number of large loans have been placed. A number of commercial connections have been established. Several new steamship lines between North and South American ports have been inaugurated or planned.

The two Americas are thinking together as well as trading together. They are deeply and cordially interested in each other. Mr. Barrett declares that since the war began, the Pan-American Union, an international organization of the twenty-one American republics, with headquarters at Washington, "has been literally overwhelmed with thousands upon thousands of letters of inquiry, relating to Pan-American commerce, Latin-American progress, resources, opportunities and general development. Such inquiries come not only from the United States for data regarding Latin America but also from every part of Latin America for information regarding the United States."

The nations of this hemisphere have kindred systems of government. They are all devoted to the ideal of democracy. They are all at peace with one another, and for the most part at peace within themselves. They have a common faith and a broad community of moral as well as practical interests. It is well that they should plan and act together for their common good.

May the highways become as plentiful as the automobiles.

While they are changing the map of Europe, somebody at home is changing the weather map.

Our Ocean Barrier.

In the three thousand miles of ocean that stretch between her and Europe, America has a mighty but by no means all-sufficient defense. The Public Ledger, of Philadelphia, recalls that Great Britain, with three hundred and seventy-five million people, took three years to subdue half a million Boers, "because South Africa was so far away;" that largely for the same reason Russia failed in its war against Japan; and that Napoleon "led an army of five hundred thousand to Moscow, but Marshall Ney staggered back across the Niemen some months later with only thirty thousand, the Czar declaring that winter was his best officer because it saved him from the French."

Any Power that undertook an invasion of America would have tremendous odds of nature to overcome. But it should be remembered that since our last encounter with a really formidable enemy science has lessened distances and has revolutionized methods of warfare. We no longer can trust wholly or chiefly to our splendid isolation. Nor do we. Our navy, as Admiral Dewey, recently said, has been developing steadily, and its continued development is insisted upon by all thoughtful Americans. The United States does not desire war; it does not expect war, but it realizes the wisdom of adequate national defense.

It's a long way from the political era of Barnes and Roosevelt to that of Wilson.

There may be a shake-up in English official life, but in America we are quite satisfied with the way our administration is acting.

The headlines are more assuring. Beginning with the announcement that Italy would fight next week, they changed to tomorrow, then to today, then to this afternoon, then to noon; and in a week or so they will announce that Italy has either gone to war or has decided to stay out.

Editorial Echoes

When the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill made his extraordinary statement that the British Admiralty could not supply ships to protect such vessels as the Lusitania, it was easy to foresee that he would soon be involved in a conflict with such a fine old sea-dog as Lord Fisher.—Public Ledger.

If a single ship-building concern in this country can complete ten submarines in five months for a foreign Government, it should help to allay the anxiety of those persons who day and night tremble at the thought of the defenseless condition of the United States. In emergency the Government could, and no doubt would, take over these boats and set about building many more, not in one ship-yard but in a dozen. But the fact that submarines can be built here in a small fraction of the time usually allowed is comforting in any circumstances.—New York World.

A Bank That Needed Discipline.

Many a national banker has gone to prison for violation of the Banking Law no more serious than those now alleged by the Government in defending the suit brought against its representatives by the Riggs National Bank of Washington.

What Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams have sought in the case of this institution is to establish lawful and responsible banking. What the officers of the Riggs Bank, seemingly supported by the powerful National City Bank of New York, have attempted to do is to make the issue personal and political.

In the answer made by the Treasury there are three items of immense significance: 1. Dummy loans were habitual in the bank, and at one time, early in 1913, more than one-fourth of its entire capital and surplus was loaned to its own officers. 2. The Vice President of the bank assumed that position in 1902, five days after he as an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury had deposited with it $3,000,000 of public funds, bearing no interest. 3. The Comptroller of the Currency, exercising autocratic power over national banks, who served from 1901 to 1908, was a constant borrower during his term of service, the original loan being $4,000, and six months after his retirement from office the bank charged off to loss in his name $6,650.

These and other violations of the National Banking Act are alleged against this highly favored institution, but each of the charges noted above implies either lawless banking or an attempt to exert lawless influence upon officers of the United States. Recent banks have let or Vice Presidents from the Federal Treasury immediately upon the receipt of public moneys; lawfully managed banks do not deadhead the Comptroller of the Currency when he appears as a "borrower," and banks that pretend to observe the law do not loan one-quarter of their capital and surplus to their own officers.

Thanks to the efficiency and the moderation of Comptroller Williams, the Riggs Bank is now conducted in obedience to law. If he had been inclined to act harshly in its case, as its officers now allege, he would have been justified in closing it in 1913, when he took office, and in prosecuting the very men who now assail him.—New York World.

How to Escape Insomnia.

BY H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

(Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Psychology and Parenthood," etc.)

I have been asked by a victim of insomnia:

"Is it not true that a person with a tendency to wakefulness can do much to help himself by systematically quieting his mind before going to bed?"

Undoubtedly this is the case, and to all sufferers from sleeplessness I commend the advice contained in one of Dr. Oppenheim's admirable "Letters to Nervous Patients:"

"A great deal depends upon the right use of the evening hours. On no account let yourself occupy them with anxious forebodings about the night.

"But on the other hand, it is not wise to take up your mind with too exciting thoughts, as the strong after-impression of feeling and fancy may counteract the tendency to sleep.

"You must find out for yourself whether a quiet game (cards, halma, chess, or patience), the reading of a serious or an amusing book, the perusal of an illustrated paper, or a chat with a friend will be most certain to give you that tranquility of mind through the vestibule of which you will pass into the temple of sleep."

There are some helpful physical aids which may also be employed in preparation for sleep.

Many people are kept awake by cold feet. The use of a hot-water bag, placed at the bottom of the bed will be found beneficial through promoting the circulation of the blood in the feet.

Other persons, especially if they sit up late at night, and then retire without eating anything, are kept awake by abdominal discomfort, due really to hunger. A few crackers or a glass of warm milk, taken just before going to bed, will be found helpful to insomniacs of this type.

But such expedients as these, it should be added, ought not to be made a regular thing. Otherwise, one will become a slave to them, and in the end may find it impossible to sleep without the artificial aid of the hot-water bag, the cracker, or the warm milk.

It is in the cultivation of a serene, confident attitude in which there is no room for fear of sleeplessness, that the best preparation for sleep consists.

Take sleep for granted, and sleep will come to you with all its blessings.

Poetry Today.

A few years ago no poets were worth knowing but the dead poets. It was the prevailing idea that modern English poetry gave up the ghost when Browning and Tennyson died. All poetical currents were supposed to be dammed forever. To be sure, men and women went on writing verse, but they wrote only in a minor way, and would never be able, according to the universal superstition, to write otherwise. Poetry was not merely a neglected art. It was a lost art, a dead art, and few indeed were brave enough to attempt to controvert the hosts of critical Jeremiahs who vowed that it was impossible of resurrection.

Poetry, however, did not die with the death of any one poet. In cannot die. Its very essence is life. Its form and expression are immortal. It may, like any art, suffer a lapse of energy, or show a temporary lack of vitality, but anyone who has watched the progress of time through literary epochs knows that poetry is always alive and always certain to revive, after periods of depression with increasing vigor. Its history is not a continuous history of uninterrupted and conspicuous triumphs. It is a record of names great ad small, of eras in which Chaucer, Shakespeare, Dryden, Shelley and all the rest are interspersed with others who were no less poets because they lacked supreme greatness. But poetry did not die, and will not die when any of its great men in any era cease to write.

The present moment, however, is one to encourage every lover of poetry, and one that will convince us all of its vitality even in so sternly materialistic an age as ours. We are in the midst of a revival of poetry. Interest in it was never greater and more earnest, and this interest is in itself evidence of achievement. Criticism of poetry is as active as is poetry itself, and in England and America are living and writing many men and women upon whom the eyes of those who are looking for creative and imaginative genius are centered. If we pick up any magazine we are certain to find in it at least one poem of permanent value; if we look in the bookstore or the public library we shall have offered us any number of recently issued volumes that prove their worth by a mere glance at their contents; if we enter into conversation with those who follow the course of modern English literature we shall find recurring again and again the names of many modern poets. In fact, the discussion of poetry seems to be usurping the place not long ago given to the novel.

Who are these poets? Why should we mention or enumerate them? They are on every tongue, and the slightest word about modern poetry suffices to bring them to mind.—Boston Transcript.

Quips and Quiddities

Two young girls were drinking tea at a fashionable restaurant when a young man raised his hat and passed on. As he passed the first girl blushed, displayed a beautiful ring on her white hand, and murmured, "Well, Jack and I are to be married in another month."

"But," said the other girl, "I thought you had thrown Jack over."

"Oh, so I did," the first replied, blushing again and hiding her face, "but—but you know how badly a girl throws!"

She—Mercy! Didn't you call the police?

He—Certainly not. It's no crime for a man to light his cigar.

PARIS CALM IN WAR

"One Goes Home At Six o'Clock and to Sleep."—City Once So Gay is Now Sedate.

BY HERBERT CORBY.

PARIS.—In Berlin one hears pitiful stories of Paris. The city is in tears one is told. The bourgeois is haunted by a fear that the Zeppeline will return. One fears that a strong "stop the war" party has developed. And so we enter.

In Paris one hears much the same stories of Berlin. There is no doubt that Germany is starving. There are no more men or munitions. Women are weeping on the streets. The kaiser is living at the little summer palace, with but two servants to wait upon her. So the stories go.

Both pictures are false. One of the most astounding things about humanity is the speed with which it accustoms itself to war. In the Champagne country I saw French peasants ploughing regardless of the shells that sometimes dropped near enough to frighten their horses. An hour's ride on a train from Paris takes one to Meaux. There one can hire a motor car for about $10 and ride near enough to hear the guns clamoring at Soissons. Paris doesn't seem to worry. Now and then this excursion appeals to Paris as a pleasant manner of spending a bright spring day.

Paris does worry, of course. One talks of nothing but the war, either here or in Berlin. Germany's most recent invention—the asphyxiating shell—stirs the Parisian to the fiercest anger. But that resilient spirit of the Gaul comes to his aid. He refuses to wear the tragic robe except at intervals. Between times he enjoys himself in a somewhat subdued fashion. He takes to the theater and the music halls. He especially goes to the picture shows. Now that the parks are green again and the sun is bright he walks in the Bois almost as he used to do. Except there are fewer of him to walk. Always he displays a patriotic philosophy.

"One goes home at 6 o'clock now and to sleep," said one to me. "It is years since I have had enough sleep."

A spiritif hour does not find the little tables on the terrasses in front of the boulevard restaurants quite so well filled. One can always get a table for dinner, no matter what restaurant one enters. Paris eats dinner earlier, for the restaurants close promptly at 10 o'clock. There are places—polite 'speak easies'—where a drink may be had after this hour. But it is doubtful if in all this city of restaurants one can obtain so much as a chicken sandwich to eat after 10.

"When are the restaurants to be permitted to stay open until a late hour?" we asked one head waiter.

"Not while there is a German upon the soil of France," was his prompt reply. "It would not be"—he felt about for an English word—"decent."

Perhaps more of the very little shops have the shutters up here than in Berlin. There were more of these shops closed when we were served by the proprietor and his wife, with maybe a shop girl to run errands. The proprietor was called to the colors. Sometimes his wife—a quiet woman, pitifully unlike the eager, chattering saleswoman of a year ago—keeps her post behind the counter. If the shop is closed, it is because her excellent business sense tells her that when there is no business there can be no profit. Still, the larger stores are open and appear to be well filled. People buy the necessities now—and mourning is a necessity.

"Chemises for the militaire," was the sign in one window which seemed somewhat ludicrous to the American who had forgotten that in France a chemise is a shirt. The window was filled with the ash-blue and tobacco-brown garments favored by the modern soldier. But the smile—if there had been a smile—was quickly checked. One saw the embossed sign upon the plate glass of the window:

"Layettes."

There are too few calls for layettes today in France. The hotels are almost empty. The Grand hotel—beloved haunt of Americans visiting Paris—has turned one-half of the establishment over to the war office, to be used as offices. A dozen or two people sit about the great lobby. At the Edward Seventh last night—this is Paris' newest big hotel—there were perhaps twenty people sitting at the tables. One cannot even get a cigar at the Continental now. For thirty years madame has presided over the cigar counter in the Continental's bar. It was her pride to call by name patrons who had not been seen in this one-time home of royalty for years. Madame has gone.

"And the gold pieces?" one asked.

When the war broke out a rich American gave madame a gold piece as a tip, because she helped materially in his effort to get his family out of France. Madame put that gold piece carefully away. When the war was over, she said, it should go to some soldier who gravely needed it. The portier who once was of a portly impressiveness, and wore a little pant brush beard—that portier whose face is now carved in deep lines—shrugged his shoulders.

"Be sure that madame will guard that gold piece," said he. "No matter if she—"

The photographers who inhabit caves on every street have reaped a harvest. There was a time, because of the police regulations requiring a photograph on passport and permis de sejour, that a line of people stood waiting at the door of every gallery. It made those who waited somewhat grimly of the bread line. Even today they are very busy, for that police appetite for portraiture still persists. And those who go to war must leave this pale remembrance with those who wait behind. Then I called for my photo pour identite a slender woman in black was giving to the photographer two small card photographs to be enlarged. They were of the same man. In one his arm was in a sling. Evidently he had been wounded and had returned from the front.

"And now?" the photographer inquired, sympathetically.

"He returned," said she, her voice quite steady. "Bnt at Soissons—"

Street venders have almost ceased to be. Women and girls—sometimes quite young girls—cry the papers. Women and girls push the carts of oranges. Woman has replaced men wherever possible in all France, even customs inspectors, to some extent. The men are needed at the front. In Germany, also, the women "man" the rear platforms of the trams. But the men and boys who once thrust postcards upon one are no longer to be seen. They were ordered off by the police. No one knows precisely why. There are a few pathetic remainders who hang drearily about the boulevards to offer mate of Paris to tourists who do not come. They are old men, or crippled. It is obvious that France's available manhood has been called to the colors. One sees posters bidding the boys of the class of 1917 register themselves, that they may be called when their time comes. One hears foolish, street corner optimism here that the war will be over in July. But the class of 1917 is to be called. The "Marie Louises"—the class of 1916—are in training now.

Still, there are compensations, the true Parisian will tell you. After the war there will be a boom. Business is already much better. He is sure of it. He speaks as though that boom were already looking at his doors. He tells you of the plans he is making. And the trees are green and the flower beds sparkle gemlike along the boulevards.

The policemen again wear their white baton for the direction of traffic. That baton went out of sight at the beginning of the war. Its return seems to the Parisian almost a harbinger of peace. And, above all, there is the army! Always when a Frenchman talks of the army, one forgets to feel sorrow for France. One thinks only of the glory of those guidons that sparkle on that long battle line.

"No line can stand against them," they tell you—every man and woman you meet will tell you—"they are even worthy of France."

TWO VERSATILE AMERICANS

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

TO achieve a genuine success in one profession is generally considered a sufficient life work for any man. Francis Hopkinson Smith, who died last month, was unusually successful in three professions—those of engineer, artist and author. His career is interesting not only in itself, but because it is so typically American. The nations of Europe may claim precedence over us in most of the arts and sciences, but none of them has produced so many men of varied and yet substantial accomplishment. Versatility is perhaps our most distinctive national virtue, and Francis Hopkinson Smith was a splendid example of it.

* * *

The humble beginning of Mr. Smith's remarkable career was as a clerk in a Baltimore hardware store at the munificent salary of $50 a year. From this position he advanced to that of assistant manager of an iron foundry, however, was compelled to close at the outbreak of the Civil war, whereupon young Smith went to New York and obtained another position in the iron business.

* * *

At the age of twenty-five he suddenly decided that he had been cut out for an engineer, and went laboriously to work to gain the necessary education. Success followed, and he was foundation of the Statue of Liberty, the Race Rock light house at New London, the breakwater about Block Island, and the sea wall around Governor's Island in New York harbor are all monuments to the engineering ability of Francis H. Smith—as he is known in business circles—which are apt to endure for a long time.

* * *

All the time that he had been working in the iron business and as an engineer he had been practicing his art in charcoal and paint with distinction while engaged in industrial pursuits, which are generally considered antagonistic to the fine arts; but he was almost entirely a self-made artist. In Baltimore he received for a short time the advice and help of an old painter, but aside from that he worked alone. By the time he was twenty-five years old he had exhibited paintings which attracted considerable attention, and was lecturing on art subjects in addition to his professional duties.

* * *

F. Hopkinson Smith was more productive as a writer than as either an artist or an engineer, and he was certainly better known to the public in that capacity; yet he wrote nothing until he had passed the age of forty-five years, and it was purely by accident that he became an author. A number of his sketches were to be brought out in book form, and the publishers ventured to suggest that he write some text to accompany and explain them. Smith protested that he was not a writer, but was finally persuaded to do the volume of sketches known as "Well-Worn Roads."

* * *

Having discovered his ability, and inspired by the joy of creative work in a new line, Smith advanced rapidly to the foremost rank as an American novelist. "Colonel Carter, of Cartersville" was his first work of fiction. It is said that he wrote it eight times with a lead pencil before it satisfied him. "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn," "Caleb West" and "The Tides of Barnegat" are some of his books with which almost every reading American is more or less familiar.

* * *

The originality, the kindliness and the abounding vitality which characterized all of Mr. Smith's works made his personality one of unusual charm and interest. He went about everything in his own way, which was rather an unconventional one. Thus, having decided to study the London of Dickens and Thackeray, he hired a coach and for about making sketches of various old buildings until finally he was arrested by an over-zealous "bobby" on suspicion of being a spy.

* * *

At another time Mr. Smith excited a good deal of comment by coming out with a vigorous defense of the so-called tipping evil. He asserted that he would like to give away $5,000 a year in tips if he could afford it, simply for the pleasure of the welcome it would assure him everywhere he traveled.

* * *

Wholly different from F. Hopkinson Smith in environment, career and in many aspects of his character, Morgan Robertson, best known as a sea writer, who died but a few weeks before Mr. Smith, is, nevertheless, a genius of the same type. Sailor, cowboy, watchmaker, jewel-setter, inventor and would-be anarchist are the principal activities which Mr. Robertson crowded into a comparatively short life. The most striking things about him are that he was successful in every trade and profession that he took up, and yet he lived in poverty practically all of his life, and in want a considerable part of it, for lack of the ability to exact fair payment for what he did. He seemed capable of doing almost anything except managing his own business.

* * *

Morgan Robertson's first aspiration was to be the first mate of a vessel, and he went to sea at the age of sixteen for that purpose. Beginning as a cabin boy on an old-time sailing ship, belabored and cursed by all hands, repeatedly shipwrecked and stranded, he slowly and laboriously fought his way up to the coveted position. Then, disgusted with the monotony and brutality of life at sea, he determined to adopt some other trade.

* * *

One of Robertson's first moves when he decided to become a land lubber was to have his "bumps" read by a phrenologist. By this gentleman he was informed that he had constructive ability, and forthwith he sought training as a jewel-setter. From this profession he graduated into that of a jewel-setter and became an expert in his line. He might never have written a word but that his eyes gave out so that he was no longer able to follow his trade.

Some chance suggested the possibility that he might make money by writing stories, and forthwith he sat down and laboriously scrawled upon the back of some circulars his first, and one of his best sea stories. The tale was composed word by word with slow and infinite labor, for the man was practically uneducated and wholly unpracticed in writing. Nevertheless, within a short time he won an enviable position as a magazine writer, and critics agree that he has written some of the best of American sea stories.

* * *

But those were the days when rewards in the writing game were slim, and the impractical Robertson was not the man to make it pay. He gradually lost the market for his stories, and middle age found him almost in destitution. Perhaps the greatest prosperity he ever knew was when a firm paid him a fairly good salary to develop a model of a periscope which he had invented. This source of income, however, was cut off by the patenting of another periscope, and the man who had succeeded so well—not once but again and again—was left without the means of making a living.

* * *

At various intervals in his career he was a cowboy, the skipper of a millionaire's yacht, and a young ladies' swimming teacher at a summer resort. At one time he decided that he was an anarchist, but does not seem to have succeeded in making converts to him seriously. This is perhaps the only thing that Morgan Robertson ever undertook in which he failed.

The Poppy Field.

Once on a time, I know not where,
I know not when. A dream, maybe,
Out of a pine wood, unaware,
I stepped upon a quiet lea.

And on the quiet meadow I
Saw all around a carpet spread,
Far as the line where land meets sky,
Of motionless blown poppies red.

And on the blood-red carpet lay,
Regarded of a thousand flowers,
A lovely, tired summer day
In first sleep of the sunset hours.

No breath. No sound. A bird in flight
The air of evening scarce does cleave;
I scarcely see his stretched wings smite,
A black line in the fragrant eve.

Once on a time, I know not when,
Long, long ago. A dream, maybe,
But I can see it now as then,
The silent, purple poppy-sea.

WALTER ANDREWS SAYS SPEECH WAS MISQUOTED

Remarks on Legislature and Prohibition Only Incidental, He Says

Editor The Journal:

I had the honor and pleasure yesterday of addressing the Ad Men's club, at their invitation, and the subject I chose as the basis of my remarks was "The Necessity of Constructive Legislation by the Next General Assembly of Georgia." Practically every member of this exceedingly constructive body of wide-awake business men of Atlanta congratulated me most warmly upon my remarks upon that occasion, but the press notices of my speech have astonished me beyond any description.

As a mere incidental remark, introductory to my speech, I expressed the hope that the next general assembly would not fritter away its time as some of them had been doing for the past eight years on such questions as near-beer and locker clubs. I then remarked that we had a sweeping, state-wide prohibition law, which is as well, if not better, executed in Georgia than our laws against larceny, robbery, burglary and murder. I then expressed the opinion that there should be a somewhat greater degree of liberality in matters of that kind in such large municipal centers as Atlanta, Savannah, Augusta and Macon, than in rural counties with small centers of population of 1,000 or 1,500.

One or two suggestions had been made to me, prior to the speech, that I discuss Atlanta affairs, but I replied that I desired to discuss issues from the standpoint of a state legislator rather than as a city councilman, and I expressly declined to refer to matters of that sort except as briefly stated above, purely introductory to my speech.

I then stated that Georgia had been going through a period of long depression, thousands of her best men had been idle, their families had suffered and that I greatly hoped the next general assembly would devote itself entirely to constructive legislation. I named as the most important piece of legislation now pressing for solution was the releasing of the W. & A. railroad and a wise and proper handling of its valuable terminal properties in Chattanooga; and in that connection, I named as another matter of great importance the working out of plans for the construction of Atlanta's big plaza scheme.

I then took up a proposition, which is of very great interest to me and of very vital interest to all of the people, the broad proposition of improving and developing country life in Georgia, and in that connection I discussed a state-wide improvement of our school systems and said that every country school in Georgia ought to be made so good that no neighbor of the school should feel compelled to move to town for the education of his children. I elaborated a little upon that proposition by saying that every school in Georgia, whether for whites or blacks, should make a special point of teaching the cardinal virtues of life, such as every good citizen must know and ought to practice, including truth telling, honorable dealing, virtue, respect for elders, etc.; and I, also, said that every one of these schools ought to teach the elementary principles of domestic science and to teach the domestics and economics of everyday life.

One of the main points of my speech was that the next legislature ought to establish a state highway commission in Georgia, and to lend every influence of the state toward scientific road-building in every section of Georgia. I discussed that proposition at some length and said that there are nine states in the union that have such commissions, seven of those nine being southern states and Georgia being one of these states. The last point I made in my speech was that I hoped that our legislature would enact laws upon such a broad and fair and honest basis that the outside world would be convinced that Georgia is a safe and inviting field for investments, and that their capital in Georgia would be justly treated, and that it would be my earnest desire and ambition to use my every effort and influence along that line and that in so doing, I hoped and believed that millions of dollars would come to Georgia for investment, which would start the wheels of business to going in our state, would give employment to all of our people and re-establish prosperity in our midst.

That, Mr. Editor, was the substance and purpose of my speech, but every word and line of all of this constructive matter was omitted from the press notices and the few incidental prefatory remarks above named were enlarged and developed into what appeared to be a sensational statement. I never even expressed an opinion on the liquor question in Georgia or the prohibition question but said that I stood ready to vote as my constituents desired me to do upon that question as well as upon all others. I said that my conception of a true representative is that of a man who is sent to do the will of those whom he represents, and that I considered it a great honor and privilege to be one of three to represent the 250,000 people of Fulton county, and that it would be the earnest purpose of my official career to properly and accurately represent them.

Respectively,
WALTER P. ANDREWS.

Catch Saves Game But Player Almost Kills Self Making It

With his right eye almost scratched out, his face lacerated and his arm bruised, Henry Digsby, a youth of East Point, lay on the operating table at the Grady hospital Friday morning, suffering great pain but proud of the heroic stab which won a ball game for the Oleanders.

Young Digsby was playing in the outfield Friday morning for the Oleanders in a match game against the Hapeville Sluggers. Three men were on the sacks, two out and the Oleanders were leading by one run. O, of course, it was the ninth inning!

Suddenly there was the well known swat of stick and sphere. The batter had sliced one on the nose and it was soaring toward Digsby with mustard on it.

East Point outfields were not made to dance on. When Digsby clawed backward with his gloved hand in the air, he lapded with both feet in a barbed wire fence. After the tumult and the shouting had perished, the ambulance had been called and Digsby dug out of the barbed wire, they found his right arm still stuck on his right shoulder, his glove still stuck on his right hand and in the glove the ball. Digsby's catch won the game.

CROWDS IN COURT AT RIGGS BANK HEARING

Spectators Are Drawn by Clash of Senator Bailey and Justice McCoy

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A big crowd of spectators, drawn as a result of yesterday's clash between former Senator Bailey and Justice McCoy, filled the district supreme court room today at the resumption of arguments on the government's motion for the dismissal of the temporary injunction obtained by the Riggs National bank against treasury officials.

Senator Bailey, of counsel for the bank, resumed his concluding argument in opposition to the motion. He replied in detail to Samuel Untermyer, who made the closing argument for the government.

"WAR BRIDES" COMING TO FORSYTH NEXT WEEK

Vaudeville's greatest play, "War Brides," a feature that has enlisted more interest than anything that has been offered on the New York stage this season, has been secured to headline the bill at the Forsyth for the week starting with next Monday's matinee. "War Brides" has been read several times to the Atlanta Drama league and there is remarkable interest among the eight hundred members of that organization, and an advance reservation indicates that the Forsyth will enjoy one of its busiest weeks.

The play has held attention for four months at one of the principal New York vaudeville theaters with a famous actress in the leading role and because of the tremendous success of the act the Keith offices organized another company to play several important cities before the end of the season, and in the list Atlanta was included. The story is a powerful appeal for universal peace. It is neutral. It would be of interest if there were no trouble between nations—It is just a wonderful offering.

"War Brides" heads a bill that will measure up to the best standard of the Forsyth.

THE WINDOW LOOK IN

Grant Street

It's so easy to be misunderstood. And misunderstanding leads so carelessly to misrepresentation.

Take, for instance, this matter of wood-block paving on Grant street. We are misrepresented now as attempting, without good cause, to "block" that enterprise.

As plainly as English can express, it is stated in our letter to the Chief of Construction that we object to wasting $1,000 on a new track that isn't needed on Grant street; that the present track, just four years old, would have to be junked; that the present rails are quite suitable for wood-block; and that by contract made in 1902 the city bound itself not to require us needlessly to change our type of track on any street.

That's our position. Quite fair, isn't it?

The bill for re-paving Grant street with wood-block would be $18,000, divided thus: City of Atlanta, $3,000; property owners, one side, $3,000; property owners, other side, $3,000; Georgia Railway and Power Co., $9,000.

But add $11,000. That would be the cost of changing our track—an unnecessary change, we say, even for wood-block paving. Add that, and our share's $20,000—more than three times what everybody else pays.

We can't afford, any more than you, to waste money; and that would be pure waste.

Moreover, the city's good faith is expressed in the 1902 contract.

All we ask is a little fairness.

A MESSAGE TO THIN, WEAK, SCRAWNY FOLKS

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 lbs of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, underfed men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this. You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials, of which it is so being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point.

Jacobs' Pharmacy and other good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution: While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous disppepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh builder.—(Advt.)

TRIES TO ROB AUTO IN FRONT OF POLICE STATION

Nervy Thief Caught Making Raid on Dr Marion McH. Hull's Car

While Dr. Marion McH. Hull was testifying Thursday night before the special investigating committee on the efficiency of the police department, a weak thief stepped up to the doctor's automobile, which was parked in front of police headquarters, and appropriated the physician's satchel containing a number of surgical instruments and a medicine chest.

The thief was seen removing the satchel by the chauffeur of Police Commissioner Andy King, whose car was also waiting in front of headquarters and the chauffeur raised a cry of "catch him."

A number of policemen ran out of the station and after a chase of several blocks caught the thief, so when Dr. Hull finished his testimony and went to get his car the satchel was again in its accustomed place.

The investigating committee closely questioned Chief Beavers, Dr. Hull, and Archie Lee, a newspaper man. Chief Beavers told the committee that he considered the department in better shape now than it has been at any time during his twenty-six years' experience on the force.

Dr. Hull declared that in his opinion the department is efficient.

Mr. Lee expressed the opinion that the department is badly disorganized, and that it is not being conducted efficiently.

Much interest is now being manifested by Commissioner Wilson and others of the probers on the subject of vice conditions in the city, and future witnesses are going to be questioned along the line of their knowledge of existing conditions, it is said.

It is reported that Mayor Woodward, whose opinions on the subject are well known, Marion Jackson, of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, Carlos Mason, former chairman of the commission, and others will be questioned on this subject before the probe is completed.

FRIDAY IS UNLUCKY FOR MAD DOGS AND THIEVES

Four Canines Slain and Three Burglars Caught by Atlanta Policemen

Atlanta's policemen had a busy and profitable few hours Friday morning. Four mad dogs were killed and three burglars caught, one of them yielding just because a man pointed his finger at him and said, "Hands up!"

C. H. Smith, of 15 East Harris street, heard a noise on his side porch early Friday morning. Unarmed, he slipped outside in the darkness and came upon a negro trying to get in the window. Standing a few feet away, Mr. Smith leveled his finger and said, "Don't move or I'll kill you!"

The negro must have been petrified with fright, for he didn't budge. While Mr. Smith held him covered with his finger, a member of the family came out with a parlor rifle which held the negro safe until Officers Austin and Wood arrived on the scene.

The negro gave the name of Leroy Davis, nineteen years old. He was bound over under $500 bond by the recorder.

Officers A. L. Smith, Captain Mayo and Sergeant Dobbs caught Will Payne and Paul Williams, two negroes, in the saloon of Dave Cheney, 94 Decatur street, early Friday morning. They had robbed the saloon of $5.25 and several bottles of beer.

Three of the mad dogs slain Friday by Officers Wood and Astin were killed at 275 East Fair street; one at 29 Liberty street.

TWO MEN DISMISSED FROM FIRE DEPARTMENT

T. S. Kerlin, Motor Driver, and W. A. Bagajski, Signal Operator, Lose Jobs

T. S. Kerlin, motor driver at fire headquarters, and W. A. Bagajski, signal operator, were dismissed from the fire department by the board of fire masters Thursday night for conduct unbecoming members of the department, and Captain A. Cook and M. J. Green were elected to fill their places.

At the hearing, called to investigate the recent arrest of Bagajski on a charge made by Kerlin that he was caught in Kerlin's home visiting Kerlin's wife, it developed that Kerlin was conducting a private loan business, contrary to the rule of the department, and that about $2,100 was loaned out by him at present to members of the department at 5 per cent a month.

Kerlin said he was not violating the law in lending this money at this rate of interest because firemen had come to him and asked him to make the loans and offered to pay him 5 per cent a month.

Kerlin, on the stand in his own defense, stated that nearly all of the men who were working to get him out of the department owed him money, and were hoping that his dismissal might relieve them of paying the notes due him.

There is a rule of the board of firemasters which provides for the automatic dismissal of any fireman who indorses a note.

Stronger Navy and Army Favored For Defense of Nation

Delegates to Lake Mohonk Conference on Arbitration Take Positive Stand on Military Preparedness

(By Associated Press.)

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., May 21.—Delegates sent to the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration by chambers of commerce and similar business organizations in most of the large cities of the country aligned themselves today with the advocates of great military preparation for national defense.

The report of the business men's committee, read by Chairman L. M. Cuthbert, of Denver, declared disputes between nations "ought to be justly settled through the proceedings of international tribunals instead of war," but asserted that "it is the part of wisdom at present for the United States to be fully prepared to defend itself from possible injustice and aggression," and advocated "the strengthening of our military and naval forces so as to effectively protect our coast."

The report recommended formulation of a code of international law and establishment of a permanent international court of justice, and an international police force to execute its decrees.

The committee also bespoke for President Wilson "in his delicate and trying position, the cordial and hearty sympathy and assistance of all citizens, regardless of section or party."

Edward A. Filene, of Boston, national councillor of the chamber of commerce of the United States, urged that the United States should be willing to make sacrifices to prove its right to a place in the councils which eventually will settle the European war. Mr. Filene, who spent four months in the war zone, said there was a growing sentiment for a world court.

He was doubtful, however, whether the United States would wish to be involved in an alliance depending on military force to carry out the decrees of such a court. In place of force he advocated a policy of non-intercourse with recalcitrant nations.

William A. Weir, justice of the supreme court of the province of Quebec, praised the "calm wisdom" of the United States government in its diplomatic relations with the European belligerents and Simeon E. Baldwin, former governor of Connecticut, spoke on "avoiding occasions for war."

Alabama Governor's Order Takes Negro Servants From Several Officials' Homes

(By Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 21.—The practice of using convicts as servants in the homes of state officials and as gardeners and cooks in the penitentiary institutions is abolished in an executive order just issued by Governor Charles Henderson. This order, which states that the practice is illegal, will return about seventy-five convicts, mostly negro women, to the penitentiary and state convict farm.

TRUCK TURNS TURTLE, NEGRO WOMAN HURT

When a motor truck of the Georgia Railway and Power company, supposedly on its way to the garage for the night, turned turtle at the corner of Ponce de Leon avenue and Ponce de Leon place Thursday night, Blanche Daniel, colored, a passenger on the truck, was very seriously injured. Rose Norman, colored, the driver, was arrested on the charge of speeding; John Bonner, colored, another passenger, was locked up charged with drunkenness. The truck was ruined. Several persons saw the accident. It appears that the truck driver, instead of going direct to the garage, was taking his friends for a ride.

BARNESVILLE BOOST CAR WILL GO ON AUTO TOUR

"We Boast Our Banks, Buggies, Back Bands, Babies and Schools" Is Its Slogan

A six-cylinder Packard car displaying the slogan "Boost Barnesville or Bust," will leave Atlanta Saturday morning with the "Seeing Georgia" automobile tour and will advertise Barnesville products on the five-day run around the state.

In the car will be C. C. Summers, general manager of the Summers Buggy company, of Barnesville; J. F. Neely, sales manager of the Empire Buggy company, of Jackson; J. Fernando Mills, head of the gas company in Barnesville, and Narcisco Caballero, a young Cuban student at Gordon institute.

On each side of the car will be a big banner on which will be written underneath the above slogan the following:

"We boast of our banks, buggies, back bands, babies and schools. The Busy Bee Town."

Barnesville has three banks, one being a national bank, their aggregate capital stock is $150,000, and they declare dividends and lay aside a surplus every year regardless of panics, wars or other finacial disturbances.

Barnesville has three large buggy factories. Since 1866 the buggies made in Barnesville have been famous throughout the south.

Barnesville's back band factory is a new industry and is growing with remarkable rapidity. It claims to make the best back bands in the world.

Barnesville's babies are the pride of all the citizens. Only this week a Barnesville baby went to the Macon baby show and captured first prize over 200 contestants. She is Miss Ora Lee Howard, the nine-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Howard.

Barnesville is likewise proud of her schools. Gordon institute is one of the oldest and best preparatory schools in the state. It is not the least bit bashful, turning out senators, congressmen, lawyers, bankers, preachers and manufacturers with equal ease.

Barnesville also is the home of the Sixth District Agricultural school, one of those institutions that are teaching young Georgians how to farm, and among them the Sixth District school is one of the largest.

These and other interesting facts about Barnesville, an old community typical of the best traditions of Georgia history and citizenship, an enterprising city thoroughly in accord with the advancing spirit of the times, will be advertised by the big Packard car bearing the slogan, "Boost Barnesville or Bust."—(Advt.)

TWO SAILORS WIN PRIZES FOR ESSAYS

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—J. N. Wheatley, chief yeoman, U. S. N., and John G. Connolly, hospital apprentice, U. S. N., won first and second prizes, respectively, of gold and silver medals for the best essays submitted by enlisted men of the navy on professional subjects in a competition arranged by the international committee of Young Men's Christian associations.

Wheatley's essay was entitled "Should the United States Have a Larger Army and Navy?" and Connolly's on "What Can the United States Learn from the Great War in Europe?"

The navy department says the papers "were of such a high order as to indicate that the men are responding to the educational advantages now being offered them."

ED. PINAUD'S
Eau de Quinine

First, it is a real hair beautifier—not a common formula—not a dye—not a cure for hair diseases—but a refined, fragrant beautifier, used by women of culture everywhere.

It also cleanses the scalp in a hygienic way—it does more than a shampoo can do. It prevents dandruff and stops itching of the scalp, which annoys at times, even when the hair is washed frequently.

It also strengthens the hair and helps maintain a healthy scalp condition so that the hair ceases to fall out.

It imparts a beautiful lustre to the hair and makes it easy to arrange.

It prevents any unpleasant odor of the scalp or hair and lends a delicate perfume of its own.

In many ways ED. PINAUD'S Eau de Quinine is the most valuable preparation on the cultured woman's dressing table and one bottle faithfully used will prove it.

Ask for a 50c or $1.00 bottle at any drug or department store. Test it for yourself and watch the results.

The range of style in Kayser Silk Gloves is so complete that you can now select your summer gloves with as much interest as you do your winter supply.

In fact, there is a Kayser Silk Glove for every warm weather need; the all-lace or the embroidered style for the diaphanous gown of midsummer; the strictly stitched and tailored glove for street suits, and the heavier silk glove for informal country wear.

Mrs. Jones Entertains For Mrs. DuBose

Mrs. Harrison Jones was hostess at tea Friday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock at her home on East Fourteenth street, in compliment to Mrs. Beverly Means DuBose, whose marriage was a beautiful event of April.

A wealth of garden flowers transformed the rooms where the guests were received into a scene of beauty. Rambler roses decorated the library and a profusion of Dorothy Perkins and Paul Neyron roses from the gardens of the hostess were used in the drawing room and dining room.

A French basket resting on a cluny lace cover, over pink satin filled with rhododendron and feathery pink spirea graced the center of the beautifully appointed tea table, while, smaller baskets held the same pretty flowers. The butterfly bows of blue tulle and the butterflies caught to the handles and fluttering among the flowers continued the Dresden color note. Colonial candlesticks of silver, held slender white tapers burning under rose color shades and the bon-bons were in pale blue and white.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. DuBose received in the drawing room, which was banked with palms. The hostess wore a ruffled gown of white taffeta, the corsage was formed of fillet lace and soft chiffon and the lace was introduced upon the skirt. The guest of honor was charming in her wedding gown of Georgette crepe and tulle, embroidered with seed pearls.

Mrs. Sam D. Jones, who assisted in receiving, was gowned in black chiffon satin with overdrapery of net embroidered in silver sequins and Mrs. Allen Jones wore pale blue taffeta, combined with chiffon embroidered in pink.

Mrs. Crawford, of Columbus, was gowned in rose shaded taffeta and lace.

Assisting in the entertainment of the guests were a number of the season's brides, who made a pretty picture in their airy summer gowns. Included among the number were Mrs. Charles Murphy Sciple, Mrs. Samuel Slicer, Mrs. Stuart Witham, Mrs. George Brown, Jr., Mrs. Hunter Muse, Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, Mrs. Westerfelt Terhune, Mrs. Arthur Clarke and Mrs. Ewell Gay.

Guests at Bridge Party

Mrs. George Bonney entertained the members of her bridge club Friday afternoon at her home on eWst Fourteenth street in compliment to Miss Louise Black, a bride elect of June.

The artistic decorations were quantities of daisies and deep pink poppies gracefully arranged in baskets and urns, placed in the rooms where the game was enjoyed.

The honor guest was presented with a set of guest towels daintily embroidered and ornamented with the initials of the bride elect. The prizes for top score and consolation were silk hose and a piece of lingerie.

The hostess was attractively gowned in white lingerie.

The guests included Miss Black, Miss Louise Van Dyke, of Chattanooga, Miss Marian Van Dyke, Miss Adrienne Battey, Miss Annie Nutting, Miss Ada Alexander, Mrs. Cyrus Strickler, Mrs. Nash Broyles, Mrs. Hattie Cole, Mrs. Edward Van Winkle, Mrs. Robert Davis, Mrs. Thomas Hinman, Mrs. Bates Block, Mrs. Lowry Porter, Mrs. Frank Boland, Mrs. Evelyn Harris, Mrs. Will Glenn, Mrs. Robert Crumley, Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins, Mrs. W. C. Jarnigan, Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. A. D. Adair, Jr., Mrs. Geddings Tupper, Mrs. Robert Gregg, and Mrs. Lee Jordan.

To Miss Jackson

Miss Eunice Jackson, of Nashville, Tenn., who has been delightfully entertained as the guest of Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, was honor guest at the dinner dance given Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon, at their home on Paces Ferry road.

Small tables were placed on the veranda which was illumined by electric lights bringing out the bright coloring of the flower centerpiece of each table and the blooming plants growing in hanging baskets and boxes.

Dinner aws served at 8 o'clock and afterward dancing was enjoyed in the spacious living room and dining room which had pretty decorations of various garden flowers.

Play This Evening

The play entitled "Iphigenia in Tauris" will be presented tonight by the dramatic club of Cox college.

Admission will be 15 cents and the public is cordially invited.

To Recent Bride

Mrs. Anton Breitenbucher, who is a recent bride, was the honor guest at the bridge party at which Mrs. Perry Blackshear entertained Friday at her home on Sunset avenue.

Hiawatha roses, crimson ramblers and southern smilax formed the pretty decorations of the spacious porches and rooms where the guests were received. The game was played beneath the shade trees on the lawn.

The guest prize was a cut glass vase and the prizes for top score and consolation were growing plants.

Class Entertained

Mrs. W. H. Burt entertained the members of the Sunday school class of Mrs. Thomas of the First Methodist church Thursday at her country home "Burtman."

Sewing-Party

Mrs. Georgia Mercer, Jr., entertained yesterday morning with a sewing party for her guest, Miss Alice Parks, of Atlanta.

Besides Miss Parks, Mrs. Mercer's guests included Miss Gertrude Brigham, Miss Ruth Ely, Miss Josephine Clark, Miss Lenore Hunter, Miss Mary Moise, Miss Mary Owens, Miss Margaret Ellis, Miss Kathleen Hewlett, Miss Annie Lynah, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, Miss Leonora Candler, Miss Elizabeth Candler, Mrs. Francis Shackleford, Miss Ellen Carter, Mrs. Feay Shellman, Miss Helen Thorn, Miss Hendree Norwood-Davis and Mrs. E. W. Cubbedge, Jr.—Savannah Morning News.

Agnes Scott Alumnae To Give Annual Luncheon

One of the delightful social events of the commencement season at Agnes Scott is the annual alumnae luncheon which will be given Saturday in the rose garden of the Hotel Winecoff.

An unusually large gathering of former students is expected and with the exception of five members, the entire class of 1914 is to be present. The honor guests of the occasion will be the class of 1915, twenty-five in number.

After the luncheon a short business meeting for election of new officers will be held. The committee on nominations will propose the following names:

For president, Miss Antoinette Blackburn, '12, and Miss Martha Rogers, '14.

Vice president, Mrs. Kathleen Kirkpatrick Daniels, '04, and Miss Mary Barker, 1900.

Treasurer, Mrs. Fannie Mayson Donaldson, '12, and Miss Annie Pope Bryan, '14.

Secretary, Miss Louise Manoss, '12.

Commencement at Woodberry Hall

A program of music and expression will be given in honor of the Woodberry alumnae on Saturday afternoon at Woodberry hall at 4 o'clock, on the occasion of the alumnae garden party to which all the former pupils of the schol are invited. The present student body will be hostesses.

The program is as follows:

Piano, Valse-Durand—Miss Mollie Belle Vincent.

Reading, (a) "Do They Miss Me at Home?" Riley; (b) "Nine Little Goblins," Riley—Miss Pauline Witcher.

Voice, "My Dreams," Tosti—Miss Adele Trammell.

Piano duett, valse, Faust—Misses Annien Lee and Mollie Belle Vincent.

Piano, "Chase of the Butterflies," Ilennes—Miss Ruth Armistead.

Piano sextet from Lucia, Donezette—Miss Annien Lee.

Reading, (a) "Love," Harmon; (b) "L'Envoi," Kipling—Miss Lucy Davis.

Bacarole, Rogers—Miss Margaret Baldwin.

The planting by the tree of the Woodberry graduates will be a beautiful feature of the alumnae garden party. The senior class exercises will precede the pla ing and will be held on the upper terrace of the school grounds.

The program will be as follows:

The prophecy—Miss Marian Bradley.

An Eventful Day—Miss Pearl Hawkins.

The class poem—Miss Mabel Monsalvatge.

Senior history—Miss Elvena Sneed.

The will—Miss Thelma Hodge.

The valedictory—Miss Frances Gresham.

A bacarole—Miss Margaret Baldwin.

Greetings from the alumnae—Miss Harriet Broyles.

On Sunday morning the students of Woodberry hall will attend St. Philip's church in a body, when the baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Bishop C. K. Nelson.

Monday evening the graduates will receive their diplomas, the exercises taking place at the Atlanta Woman's club at 8 o'clock.

Following the graduating exercises a large reception will be held at Woodberry hall on Peachtree circle, given by Miss Rosa Woodberry to the graduates.

The graduating exercises will be as follows:

Monday, May 24, 8 p. m.

Piano solo—Miss Marian Bradley.

Valedictory address, "Development of Woman to Meet the New Conditions of the Twentieth Century"—Miss Frances Gresham.

Literary address, "What and Whither?"—Judge Joseph Henry Lumpkin, of the supreme court of Georgia.

Delivery of diplomas—Miss Rosa Woodberry, principal.

Benediction.

To Mrs. Palmer

Mrs. James L. Dickey, Jr., entertained at luncheon Friday in her apartments at the Ponce de Leon, in compliment to Mrs. Leigh Palmer, of Washington City, the guest of Mrs. William F. Hill.

The table had a pretty centerpiece formed of garden flowers arranged in a white and gold vase with two smaller vases at each end.

Covers were laid for fourteen.

USING SOAP SPOILS THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quicly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—(Advt.)

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The foolish little Otter who hadn't minded his father and mother, but had remained behind on the bank of the little pool in the Laughing Brook didn't have time to even squeal before Old Man Coyote had him. Old Man Coyote didn't kill him at once as he might have done with one crunch of his great jaws. He wanted to play with him a little first.

Now, though Old Man Coyote thought that no one saw him, some one did. It was Sammy Jay. Sammy had been following the Otter family, keeping very still and taking the greatest pains to keep out of sight himself. You see, he was very much interested in those children of Little Joe Otter and he thought it great fun to watch them having their first lessons in fishing. So he was right where he could see perfectly well what happened. The instant Old Man Coyote sprang from his hiding place Sammy knew that that little Otter hadn't a chance in the world unless he could do something. Right away he remembered Farmer Brown's boy fishing just a little further down the Laughing Brook. "Perhaps," thought Sammy, "if I scream loud enough he will come to see what all the fuss is about."

So Sammy opened his mouth and began to scream at the top of his lungs. "Thief! Thief! Thief!" he screamed, flying down just over Old Man Coyote's head.

Old Man Coyote looked up and snarled angrily. "Stop your noise!" he snapped. "This is none of your business."

"Thief! Thief! Thief!" screamed Sammy louder than ever.

Now, the very instant that Sammy began to scream Little Joe Otter and Mrs. Joe, who were just around a turn in the Laughing Brook, knew that an enemy was near. For the first time they missed the little Otter who had remained behind. Little Joe didn't wait a second. He started back as fast as he could swim, which is very fast indeed. Mrs. Joe followed as soon as she had seen that the other little Otter was in a safe hiding place.

Old Man Coyote was still snarling at Sammy when he saw Little Joe coming, and behind him Mrs. Joe. He knew then that he was to have a fight, but he had no intention of giving up that little Otter. He backed away, dragging the little Otter with him and showing all his great teeth in ugly snarls. Meanwhile Sammy Jay kept up his screaming. Of course, Farmer Brown's boy heard it. He stopped fishing to listen. He knows the ways of Sammy Jay, does Farmer Brown's boy.

"Something going on back there," he muttered. "Wonder what it is. Sammy doesn't holler like that unless he is terribly excited. Guess I'll have to see what it all means."

He laid his rod down, leaving the bait in the water. Very carefully he tiptoed back to where Sammy was making such a racket. He was just in time to see Little Joe and Mrs. Otter bravely rushing at Old Man Coyote, who was growling and snarling, while with his two forefeet he held down the whimpering little Otter. Farmer Brown's boy didn't stop to think. He just opened his mouth and yelled. Then, grabbing up a stick, he rushed forward.

Old Man Coyote didn't wait for him to get there. At the sound of that yell he jumped as if he had been shot. Then he turned and vanished like a shadow in the brush. Little Joe Otter and Mrs. Joe had been almost as much frightened as Old Man Coyote, and they ran, too. But not far. Oh, my, no! Their love was too strong for that. They dived into the little pool, but almost at once their brown heads appeared again as they turned to see what new danger threatened their darling.

As for the latter he was too badly frightened to move. He growled feebly in a very frightened way as Farmer Brown's boy picked him up.

"You poor little thing," said Farmer Brown's boy gently. "I wouldn't hurt you for the world."

But the little Otter couldn't understand a word, and just shivered with fear. At first Farmer Brown's boy decided that he would take the little fellow home for a pet. Then he looked out in the little pool straight into the eyes of Mrs. Joe and he saw there such a look of anxious love and longing that he instantly changed his mind. He stepped to the edge of the water and gently put his little captive into it. Then he laughed with the laugh was good to hear as the little fellow dived and swam out to join his parents as fast as ever he could and all three promptly disappeared. When he got back to where he had left his rod something was tugging at the line. It was the biggest trout he ever had caught.

Young Couple Keeps Wedding Secret For Three Whole Months

Mrs. J. M. Graves.

Three months ago Jesse Mercer Graves, a young man holding a position with the Capital City Laundry company, took his pretty sweetheart, Miss Gladys Mildred Johnson, to the residence of Rev. G. R. Buford, on Capitol avenue, and they were married.

Then he took his bride to her home, 165 Richardson street, and he went to his home in College Park. They didn't tell anybody and asked Mr. Buford to keep the marriage a secret.

That was on February 25. Since then the young couple have simply kept on being sweethearts, he calling at her home, taking her to movies and theaters, and buying her candy and ice cream, and she occasionaly receiving calls from other young men.

A week ago, on Friday, May 14, they decided to tell. So they fixed up a telegram to her family at W. Johnson, who was in South Carolina on business, and when he returned home Thursday evening he found his son-in-law established at the Johnson home on Richardson street.

There had been no objection on his part to his daughter's sweetheart, on account of age or otherwise, and when he came home he joined in their laugh over the fun they had enjoyed being secretly married, and bestowed his blessing in the approved fatherly style.

WALSH CALLED DOWN FOR ROCKEFELLER QUIZZ

Other Members of Board Ask Him to Show Moderation in Questions

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Just before John D. Rockefeller, Jr., resumed his testimony today before the industrial relations commission all the commissioners except Chairman Walsh met in executive session to consider their "round robin" of last night calling for more moderate treatment of witnesses. Some of the commissioners did not conceal that they thought the chairman's questioning of Mr. Rockefeller yesterday should have been modified.

The commissioners did not make public their letter to Chairman Walsh, which it was understood they would do should their suggestion go unheeded. Chairman Walsh said he did not know what had happened in the executive session.

"The examination or Mr. Rockefeller," said he, "has and will be conducted with due consideration and the truth will be arrived at."

Mr. Rockefeller began today by reading a prepared statement which related to Chairman Walsh's questioning on his view of the reputation and of the conviction of John R. Lawson, a mine workers' leader. Mr. Rockefeller spoke of "bitter reflections" and said Chairman Walsh's questions had been framed to make it appear that Mr. Rockefeller had conceded there had been wilful tampering with the courts.

Despite the protests of the witness and the other commissioner, however, Chairman Walsh today repeatedly plied Mr. Rockefeller with questions which the latter declared sought to make improper implications against him or the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

As soon as Mr. Rockefeller concluded his formal statement Mr. Walsh said:

"If there are any questions I ask that you think should not be answered, you may state the fact, and the commission will consider what should be done. I suppose your high regard for law extends to all officers charged with administration of the law?"

"Yes, it does."

"You haven't contempt for officers of the law who do not do your bidding?"

"I don't undertake to direct the officers of the law."

"Do you undertake to coerce officers of the law?"

"We don't undertake to get officers of the law in any position," said Mr. Rockefeller, "that is entirely improper."

Mr. Walsh read a letter sent to the witness from Denver by L. M. Bowers, November 15, 1913, which said:

"You will be interested to know that we have been able to secure the cooperation of all the bankers of the city, who have had three or four interviews with our little cowboy governor, agreeing to back the state and lend it all the funds necessary to maintain the militia and afford ample protection so that our miners could return to work, also protection to men who are anxious to come up here from Texas, New Mexico and Kansas together with some from states farther east."

EDITORS TAKE STAND.

"Besides the bankers, the chamber of commerce, the real estate exchange, with a great many of the best business men have been urging the governor to take steps to drive the vicious agitators out of the state. Another mighty power has been rounded up in behalf of the operator by the gathering together of fourteen of the editors of the most important newspapers in Denver, Pueblo, Trinidad, Walsenburg, Colorado Springs and other of the larger places in the state. They passed resolutions demanding that the governor bring this strike to an end.

"Still the governor hobnobs with Hayes, Lawson, McLennan and the rest of the gang, and either refuses or begs for more time to bring the strike to an end or to amply protect the operators in bringing outsiders to take the places of those who have left the state and those engaged in these murderous assaults whom we refuse to take back under any circumstances. Yet we are making a little headway.

"There probably has never been such pressure brought to bear upon any governor of this state by the strongest men in it as has been brought to bear upon Governor Ammons."

Commissioner Walsh also read a letter written to the witness by Mr. Bowers in December, 1913, saying:

"If the governor had acted on September 23, as he has been forced to act during the past few weeks, this strike would never have existed ten days.

"WIRED THE GOVERNOR."

"WWe used every possible weapon to drive him into action, but he was glove-in-hand with the labor element and, today, but the big men of affairs have helped the operators in whipping the agitators, including the governor.

"Now these fellows are cursing him without regard for common decency, so everybody is giving him more or less taffy to keep him from backsliding. The enclose is a sample of the resolutions being sent to him, besides any number of personal letters."

"Do these letters show your policy?" asked Chairman Walsh.

"Did I write those letters?" demanded Mr. Rockefeller.

"No, but you received them," said the chairman.

"But I did not write them, so they can scarcely be said to show my policy," said Mr. Rockefeller.

"I propose to call your attention to six letters written by you in which you say that you back up these actions by Mr. Bowers."

The letters mean that there was disorder in the state of Colorado. Naturally every citizen would use every influence to get the public officers to do their duty," said Mr. Rockefeller. He decared emphatically it was necessary for him to "back up" the men placed in charge of the coal properties.

COX COLLEGE DRAMATIC CLUB WILL GIVE PLAY

"The Iphigenia in Taurus" Will Be Presented at College Friday Evening

"The Iphigenia in Tauris," a play by Euripides, arranged and presented by the Cox College Dramatic club, under the direction of Mrs. Curtis Arnall-North, will be the attraction Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the college auditorium. The play is founded on Greek mythology and is presented as part of the seventy-second commencement exercises of the college which began Thursday night.

The young ladies have been most carefully drilled and the play promises to be presented without the usual amateur hitches and embarrassments.

The commencement exercises will continue until May 25 when the following young ladies will be given their diplomas: Misses Mabel Chloe Johnson, M. A.; Irena Singleton, M. A.; Ruth Pringle, B. A.; Helen Reeves, B. A.; Edna Walters, B. A. Ruby Wilkerson, B. A.; Jess Pringle, B. O.; Ethyl Pringle, B. O.; Edna Walters, B. O.; Helen Martin, B. M.; Lois Ryals, B. M.; Charline Sasser, B. M. Pauline Trimble, B. M.; Effie oLu Walker, B. M.; Lucy Wimer, B. M.

Diploma in expression, Myrtle Flangan, Wyolene Nance.

The annual debate between the two literary societies of the college will take place Saturday evening; the baccalaureate sermon will be preached Sunday afternoon by the Rev. W. L. Pickard of Mercer university, and the senior class exercises will be held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The alumni banquet and annual concert will be held Monday night and the diplomas will be conferred Tuesday night, and Dr. Jacob L. White, of the Baptist Tabernacle, will deliver the annual literary address.

RESOLUTION IN TEXAS ASKS FOR COMMUTATION

(By Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, Tex., May 21.—A resolution signed by 71 members was introduced in the lower house of the Texas legislature today urging the governor of Georgia to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed upon Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan. The resolution went over until tomorrow. The 71 signers constitute nearly a majority of the house.

Plan Pigeon Show

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 21.—At a meeting of the directors of the Dixie Pigeon show held last night it was decided to hold another big show next season on a larger scale than the one just held. A meeting of the Columbus Poultry association was also held and it was determined to have a great poultry exhibition next November. The following officers were named for this organization: C. R. Medley, president; S. D. Wight, vice president; John S. Jenkins, secretary-treasurer.

ROBBERY SITUATION IS SERIOUS, ASSERTS COURT

Judge Reid Says Law Must Be Firm and Gives Prisoner Five Years

"Robberies are becoming so frequent that the situation is serious and the law must deal firmly with it," declared Judge C. S. Reid, of the Stone Mountain circuit, presiding Friday in the Fulton superior court, when he disregarded the recommendation of the jury for mercy and sentenced H. D. Fleming to serve five years in the chaingang.

Fleming, a young white man, was convicted of robbing Charles Hill, a negro, of $17 on the night of April 23.

He asked for a misdemeanor sentence that he might support his aged mother.

MISSION BOARD SCORES SHORTNESS OF FUNDS

"Selfishness and Indifference" Blamed in Report to Cumberland Presbyterian

(By Associated Press.)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21.—The report of the board of missions and church erection of the Cumberland Presbyterian church blames "selfishness and indifference" for the small amount of money made available in the past year for the boards.
The Cumberland church, according to the report, paid to its missionaries during the year just closed $1,280. Money for the erection of churches handled by synods and reported to the board amounted to $34,846 and the board raised for missions and church erection $28,466.
During the year just closed the board of ministerial relief received $3,667.02 and spent $4,281.58, recourse being necessary to a cash balance on hand at the beginning of the year.

FOREIGNERS CAN'T USE U. S. TO COLLECT DEBTS

NEW YORK, May 21.—Federal Judge Veeder, dismissing a suit brought by an English firm against an Austrian company to collect $45,000 admittedly due, ruled today that the United States courts cannot be used by foreigners to collect debts from their enemies where payment has been prevented by war.
The plaintiff in the suit, Watts & Watts, of London, delivered to the Austro-American Navigation company here $45,000 worth of coal last July, to be paid for in London in sixty days. Before this period elapsed England and Austria were at war, and the debt was not paid. When the defendants steamer Martha Washington reached New York later it was libelled and action brought to collect the $45,000.
The defendants admitting the claim, but plaided it was not paid because Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, had forbidden his subjects to have business dealings with the British. This contention was upheld by Judge Veeder.

Social Calendar for University Of Georgia Commencement

The 116th commencement at the University of Georgia is being anticipated with interest and pleasure and will be largely attended. Addresses will be made by Governor John M. Slaton, Mr. Fairfax Harrison and General P. W. Meldrim, of Savannah. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. John D. Mell.
The social side of the week will be unusually gay, many house parties are to be given and pretty girls will be in attendance at the festivities from many different points in the state.
The first dance of the series, which is the Pan-Hellenic, will be held on Friday evening, June 11, at 9 o'clock at the Moss auditorium.
Saturday night, June 12, at 8:30 o'clock there will be the masquerade ball, which is always an event of unusual interest.
The juniors will have their dance on Monday night, June 14, at 9 o'clock.
The law hop will be given on Tuesday night, June 15, at the same hour.
The seniors' dance will be held on Wednesday evening, June 15, and will be the last event of the 116th commencement with the exception perhaps of the many breakfast parties which usually follow the dance of the senior class.

NORCROSS PUBLIC SCHOOL CLOSES FOR THE TERM

Twelve Young People Will Be Given Diplomas Monday Night

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
NORCROSS, Ga., May 21.—The closing of the present term of the Norcross public schools included an interesting program. Thursday an exhibit of articles of artistic work and mechanical productions of the girls and boys were shown and sandwiches were served demonstrating the progress made in the domestic science department which was very pleasing to patrons and gratifying to teachers.
Friday evening plays by the various grades was much enjoyed by the large audience at the auditorium. Monday, the 24th, the graduating exercises will be held at the school auditorium when the twelve young people will receive their diplomas. They are:
Miss Jamie Roper, Miss Nora Finley, Miss Myrtle Pirkle, Miss Ethel Cain, Miss Mattie Jones, Miss Laura Martin, Miss Nellie Jones, Miss Cora Mauldin and four young men, Mr. Frank Simpson, Mr. Troy Carroll, Mr. Porter Leitch and Mr. John McClure.
Dr. F. C. McConnell is to deliver the address Monday evening.
Teachers for next term of the Norcross school have been chosen as follows:
Prof. C. C. Gilbert, superintendent; assistants, Miss Gladys Holbrook, of Guyton, Ga.; Miss Helen Matthews, Thomson, Ga., Miss Margie Holland, Seneca, South Carolina.
Miss Mary Russell, Miss Mary Simps, Miss Ruth Rainey, Miss Ruth Wingo, of Norcross.

ALABAMA'S HIGH COURT ORDERS DEATH FOR TWO

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 21.—Millard Carpenter and Syd Jones, negroes, will be hanged in the Jefferson county jail at Birmingham June 25 for murder, as a result of decisions of the supreme court. Carpenter was convicted of the murder of John T. Camp, owner of a transfer line in Birmingham, and Jones, a state convict, was sentenced for the murder of a fellow convict, Will Watson, at Flat Top mines.
Camp's death created great excitement in Birmingham. He was shot to death at his place of business late one afternoon last summer. Carpenter was arrested several weeks later and the circumstantial evidence against him was so great a verdict of guilty was returned.
The jury in deciding the Jones case had either to impose the death sentence or acquit him as he was serving a life sentence for murder when he killed Watson with a pick in the coal mine at Flat Top.

Gibson's Wild Peg to Third Gave Crackers a Victory in Last of Series

George Kircher Here With Vols For Four Games

Schwartz's Club Open First Series of Season With the Crackers Today--Manager Smith Gives Dent Notice; Signs Perry--This Is Not Ladies' Day

Somewhat subdued after their mad dash from the getaway at the opening of the league season, but still sticking up among the elite the Nashville Vols are here for a four-game series with the Crackers. The first fray of the four is on for today, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. Owing to the fact that the Vols will be here through Tuesday of next week today is not ladies' day. Holders of ladies' season tickets will be admitted free on Tuesday.

Chief among the features of interest in connection with the first appearance of the Vols at Ponce de Leon is the fact that George Kircher will be in the line-up of the visitors. After some little hitch, over which Nashville scribes took occasion to pan Bill Smith and the Crackers for Kircher's delay in joining the club, George reported and appeared in the game against the Crackers on Thursday. He will play today, and will no doubt be out on the coaching lines with some of his comedy antics during the fray.

The Vols have slumped considerably from the form which they showed during in the early games, and Manager Bill Schwartz has shifted his line-up from the original cast. Gene Paulet and Johnny Dodge at first and third respectively were with the club last season. Delly Stark, who played short for the Chicks under Mike Finn is playing second, while a newcomer, Wise by name, is now working at short. Bisland, who started the season at second has been benched temporarily.

In the outfield, Schwartz has Bert King, played with the club last season, Kircher and a youngster by the name of Farmer. The latter was also recruited from the Georgia-Alabama league. Gabby Street and Red Smith are doing the catching for the club, while Heine Berger, Floyd Kroh, Tom Rogers, Bill Leverette, Herb McLeod, and a new hand by the name of Rankin form the pitching staff. Leverette was obtained from Louisville late last season and McLeod was landed in the deal which sent Frank Gibson to the Tri-State league.

Manager Smith announced another change in the roster of the Crackers Thursday night. Elliott Perry, who has been a member of the pitching staff for the past two seasons, has been given five days' notice of release. In his stead, Scott Perry lately obtained from the Louisville club has been signed up. Perry will draw his first trick with the locals in the game against the Vols this afternoon.

If Allen Williams' hand has recovered sufficiently from the injury sustained in Wednesday's game, he will return to his box second. It is doubtful, however, whether the bad hook will permit him to get into the line-up yet. In case he is unable to play, Sid Smith will continue at second with Jenkins behind the plater.

Here is the probable line up:

ATLANTA.	NASHVILLE.

J. Birmingham Throws Up Job

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 21.—Joe Birmingham resigned today as manager of the Cleveland Americans. President Somers, of the club, announced the resignation had been requested and that no successor had been named.

Birmingham succeeded Harry Davis as manager in 1912. He had played in a Cleveland uniform as an outfielder since 1906.

The team's poor showing last year and so far this season, is said to have led to his retirement.

Speedway in Fine Shape for Big Race

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21.—The condition of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway where the annual 500-mile automobile race will be run May 29 is the best it ever has been, according to a statement which was given out yesterday by the management. A. F. Pardington, referee, Tom Hay, starter, and other officials who looked over the track were particularly impressed, they said, with the retaining walls which recently were built on the inside of all the turns. These walls are designed to prevent accidents such as the one last year in which Joe Dawson's back was broken when his car left the track and turned over in the sand. The first of the elimination trials, which were postponed yesterday because of the rain, are to be held today.

Prioleau Leads Carolina Golfers

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 21.—The second round of five flights, the semi-finals in the annual golf tournament of the Carolinas are on the day's program at the Country club links. E. F. Prioleau, Jr., of Charleston, won the qualifying round medal. Columbia, S. C., took the team match cup, in yesterday's play.

E. F. Mayberry, of Charleston, made the 18th hole in the qualifying round in one stroke. Finals will be played tomorrow, also an association handicap.

The assembly at the annual business meeting re-elected all officers. Charlotte was selected as the place for the 1916 tournament. Raleigh put in an invitation for the 1918 tournament.

Miss. Aggies Will Meet Texas on Track

STARKVILLE, Miss., May 21.—The Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical college will meet the University of Texas in a dual track meet at Austin, Tex., June 3, for the championship of the south, it was announced here Thursday. The local institution recently won the twentieth annual field and track meet of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association.

The crack New York pitchers of the old days were named Mickey and Tim. Now the Raymonds have the call. See Ray Caldwell, Ray Keating and Ray Fisher.

THE CASE OF COOMBS.

"How," asks a Dodger fan, "did Connie Mack make the big mistake of thinking that Jack Coombs was all in? I had always heard that Connie was one of the wisest there are, but Coombs' case doesn't show it."

On the contrary, Connie knew that Coombs wasn't all through, ready for his place in the shadows he has with those that used to be. Connie let the Colby Carbine drift because he was forced to cut expenses. But before doing so he tried to get his own league to take Jack, furnishing a testimonial to the effect that he was still a first-class pitcher. The A. L. wouldn't stand for it. Connie then crept Charlie Ebbetts that winked and let Coombs pass on. Result, at least two good years of pitching left, and Ebbetts accepted the tip, took a chance and paid Coombs the same salary he had received at Philadelphia. "And you can say," interjects Colonel Ebbetts, "that I am more than glad I made the deal. Coombs has not only shown better stuff than I believed he still had left, but he is a fine man for a ball club, a good, clean hard-working citizen, who is a credit to the game."

In behalf of which we'd like to see Colby Jack step out and win every game he pitches, that being the type of citizen we have always found him.

LEADING TO THE CASE OF CONNIE.

The Coombs incident brings up a number of sharp criticisms Mack has received for selling Collins and permitting Messrs. Bender, Plank and Coombs to drift, with Baker left in his Maryland farm.

Well, suppose you were Mr. Mack. Suppose you had invested your kale in a ball club. Suppose, after winning your fourth pennant, you had discovered a big deficit, due to the fact that your clientele had become weary of unending victory?

Would you stand on further financial losses or attempt a shift, building up a new machine?

CONCERNING McLOUGHLIN.

Dear Sir: A certain eminent tennis authority, in a manner of speaking, has stated in his columns that without his incomparable service Maurice McLoughlin would rank somewhere in the second ten in this country.

What is the true dope on this?

In the first place, one might as well say that Ty Cobb, but for his great batting, would not be near the ball player he is to-day; or that Grover Cleveland Alexander, but for his right arm, would only be a fair pitcher. McLoughlin's service is a big part of his game. But not all of it by an extensive margin. With a service no better than the average star he would still be a great player, one of the best, but this has nothing to do with the fact that McLoughlin is the greatest lawn tennis player in the game.

J. W. M.

TRAVERS AND PUTTING.

Critics used to make the same mistake about Jerry Travers. They had a habit of saying that Travers would never have been champion except for his phenomenal putting. They forgot that in addition to this he was a master of the long irons, very good with the mashie and a star at the job shot off the green. They also forget that in the cases of both McLoughlin and Travers stamina and courage were big factors, and these are as much a part of any game as the science of a stroke.

We take it that Yale men have no protest of any sort coming over the incident built around Mr. Roos, the shotputter. Harvard and Yale were operating under an agreement, and under this agreement Roos was not eligible to compete by the printed laws set up and approved. Which is about all there is to it.

OFFSIDE PLAYS.

Many a bloke has been labelled game who merely had a hard head and a thick hide.

The contender who never beats himself carries a percentage considerably above .500.

The Giants have suddenly discovered that it is a lot easier to slip down into last place than it is to slip back up again. A discovery that is far from being new.

REVISED BY O. GOLDSMITH.

As he played, they heard the rooters groan
That one small head could carry all that bone.

The rumor was scattered broadcast that with good pitching the Giants would have no great trouble winning. At which point Jeff Tesreau kicked in with a 2-hit game and was upset 1—0. All Mr. Tesreau cares to know is the name of the miscreant who started the above rumor.

THE AFFAIRS OF THE BRAVES.

Down in Macon last March at Brave camp-quarters, George Stallings told us that by the 1st of June he confidently expected to have a safe lead, and from that point on breeze merrily to his second championship.

But Stallings then had no tip that Johnny Evers was to be misplaced so early in the season or for such a spell. As it is, the Braves, minus Evers, have more than held their own and have shown enough power to still leave them installed as flag favorites. Certainly no other club, barring the first frenzied dash of the Phillies, has shown any wider variety of so-called stuff. And it's the stuff that counts at the finish.

$25,000 has been offered for a battle between Jim Coffey and Jess Willard. We advise Jess to take it—before the world's last $25,000 has been burnt up in powder, projecting sharpnel up and down the field.

The Yanks, via the averages, are not batting any abnormal amount above last season. But they are obtaining a much larger supply of runs, and it is the run, not the base-hit, which formulates the most vital part of the box score.

These are tough days for the Reds again. Through force of habit the approach of each June finds them pointed in the same direction after a start that gave promise of better things. Force of habit is one of the toughest institutions in the game to beat.

Clements Will Lead Georgia

Coach Bean Plans to Start Practice Work Next Week, Most of Team to Return

ATHENS, Ga., May 21.—With the records of the 1915 season scarcely written down along with things that are past and gone, activities bearing on the 1916 baseball season at Georgia are being taken up. The team on Thursday elected Shortstop Horace Clements captain for next season. Clements is an engineering student and has played three years on the team.

But the election of a captain is not all. Next week Coach Joe Bean is expected to return to Athens and get out a bunch of material to begin a practice with a view to getting a line on what will be available next season. This is a new departure and the coach believes he will be able to get a pretty fair line on a number of players who were not given the fullest opportunity to show their worth during the past season.

Just at present, it appears that nearly all of the team the past year will return. There is some doubt about Hitchcock, and one or two of the others are not positive as to whether or not they will return. However, the entire infield is eligible to play another year, Captain Clements, Henderson, Harrison and Holden, all having played but three years on the team. Gillis, Erwin, Spurlock, Carraway, Johnston, and several others who were on the squad the past season are expected to be back next year, and indications this far in advance are that the Red and Black will have the material for a great team next season.

Poll Perritt is proving a weak addition to the Giants' hurling forces. He has won but one game, and on Thursday was knocked out of the box by the Pirates. He was derricked in the second inning.

Starr Sweet on Young Fincher

Little Rock Manager Says Young Right Hander Is Fine, and Is Due to Go Higher

When Charlie Starr sprung this young right-hander Fincher on the Crackers here in the series just past he added to the list of hurling talent of high caliber in the Southern league another recruit from a section of the country which has already contributed at least a couple of good ones to the league. Fincher comes from northeast Arkansas. He is from the same section that produced Day, another hurler for the Travelers and former member of the Montgomery Billikens, and Cunningham, a strapping youngster who is pitching good ball for the Mobile Gulls.

Speaking of his youngster during the stay just finished here, Manager Starr stated that he believed he had a great young hurler in Fincher, and a good prospect for big league material. "This boy is young, and has had practically no experience," said Starr. "I am taking no credit for finding him, for he was with the club when I joined it. But I expect to see him develop into a top-notcher.

"This is his first year in real organized ball. He was born and reared in northeast Arkansas, up in the section that has produced more than one good pitcher before him. He pitched independent ball in that section, but had never had any real league experience until the Little Rock club grabbed him. He has good control, a good curve ball, enough speed, and best of all, is cool. He is willing to work every other day, if necessary. In fact, down in Mobile he pitched one game, and came back the next day and informed me that he had more stuff than the day before and wanted to work that game, too. I was afraid to work him too much, and didn't send him in. If he suffers no misfortune, and continues to improve as he should he is going to be a top-notcher some day."

Moran Strong Factor in Victory Over Travelers

By Innis Brown

There may be some kind of charm attached to that center field territory at Ponce de Leon which enables guardians of that province to put over bizarre fielding stunts, and again it may just have been a piece of good fortune that local fans have been permitted to see some great patrolers of that beat work here during the past week or ten days.

Fans who attended the series with the Memphis Chicks last week still remember the great stuff that Briscoe Lord pulled off out there against the Crackers in the second game of the series. Wednesday Heinie Jantzen cut in with a catch of a liner by Roy Moran that was all but impossible. Like a sure triple and possibly a homer. But Heine thrust his meat hand in front of the ball after a wild dash and leap into its course of flight.

Well, Thursday Roy got even, in a way. He did not return the favor for Friend Jantzen, but he proceeded to rob Bill Elwert of a couple of blows that, on the law of averages should have been safe shots for anywhere from two to four bags. The local gardener took one after a swift sprint toward left, and gathered the other in after a hard run toward the scoreboard.

Incidentally, it is no more than his due to say that Roy was the hero of that victory Thursday. This pair of catches were only half of his defensive contribution, as he captured two more at odd times, and took prompt and sure care of the safe drives that were fired his territory.

However, it was his offensive operations that permitted the Crackers to emerge from the conflict with flying colors, at any rate to come through with their streamers flying in the regulation nine innings of play. Herb Kelly was effectually choking off the Travelers, but more of his work anon.

It was like this. Young East, who pays his poll tax (if the tax collector ever nabs him) at Rome, Ga., was on the slab for the Travelers and his presence was in forcible evidence to the Crackers. He had been pried aloose from a couple of safeties in the first round by a couple of Bill Smith's flies that were non-productive so far as the run column was concerned.

From this time on this distinguished Roman was doing some very clever flinging. He was turning the Crackers back with a disheartening consistency, and with Herb Kelly working smoothly, the battle began to smack of extra innings. But in the fourth round, with one gone, Roy smote a double to left center. Rumler took a mighty swing but lofted to Baker in left, and Roy was still on second. While East was pitching to Jenkins Roy caught him and Gibson napping and pulled a delayed steal of all-way.

But East was working valiantly to dispose of Jenkins. Apparently a hit or an error necessarily meant a run home, as East figured it, and he was devoting his entire energies to sending Joe back to the bench to gather up his mitt, mask and protector. Sizing up the situation, Roy made a wild dash in an attempt to steal home. However, there was no throw to Jenkins at this time, and the pitch was right in the slot, so that Joe didn't dare let it pass, lest he be called out on strikes for the third out.

He did the best thing possible, as subsequent events went to show, and took a healthy cut at the ball and fouled it off. On the next pitch he walked, and East made a wild throw, but gave lead off first to draw a throw, but East ignored him and made the pitch. Gibson decided to throw through, but pegged instead to Elwert to catch Moran napping. The pass was low, and the ball got away from Elwert, Moran scooted, and so did Jenkins on the error. Roy might have had a clean steal of home, had Jenkins not swung at that third strike, but as things turned out the Crackers got two runs instead of one, which by the way would have been enough to win the game.

Kelly opposed East on the mound and the Mobile product worked in good shape. He was a bit wild in three rounds, and bobbles back of him came near getting him into trouble in the ninth, but he settled down and wonderfully the storm in fine shape. The Travelers got to him for seven hits and he walked four more. But he was right as a clam in the pinches, and sent four of the opposition back to the bench on strikes.

Otto Williams was unable to get into the fray. He was hit on the hand by a pitched ball in the final round of Wednesday's game, and the mitt and fin was badly swollen at game time. He will probably be out of the line up for a couple of days or possibly longer. Sir Smith handled the second-basing job in his stead. Sid was not called on to take care of any risky cutters, but registered six put-outs at the bag on throws from the rest of the cast. Three of these were the results of attempts by the Travelers to steal on Jenkins. Only one man swiped second on Joe, and he did so while a runner was on third, with two gone, and no play was made to catch him.

Bruhlstein changed places with Stradford and allowed the rooky to work a game behind the bat. The youngster got by with a nice hide, but his decisions on strikes were protested vigorously by both sides throughout. From the press box it appeared that he missed a good many more that appeared to be over all right. Probably both teams were after handing him a bit of baptismal fire.

Starr yanked East in the eighth and sent in a couple of pinch hitters, replacing the pitcher as well as Outfielder Shaw. Frank Gribbens hit for the hurler and whaled a single to center. Downey forced Gribbens and Georgia Merritt, plugging for Shaw, bounded one over second that Smith managed to field, but he had no chance to catch the runner. Had the Travelers been fortunate enough to draw a couple of bobbles by Manning and Bisland in this round that came in the ninth, they would have created trouble, but the cast was steady in the pinch, and no ill effects followed these two raps.

Belmont's Entry Captures Feature

NEW YORK, May 21.—August Belmont's four year old gelding Stromboli, by Fair Play-St. Priscilla carrying 118 pounds with Jockey Turner in the saddle, won the one mile Metropolitan handicap, feature of the opening of the Aqueduct racing season at Belmont Park Thursday. A huge crowd watched the twenty-second running of the event, for which ten horses started.

Schuyler L. Parson's Sharpshooter, finished second, three quarters of a length behind the winner, with Capt. E. H. Cassatt's Flying Fairy third, five lengths away. The time was 1:39 4-5. two seconds slower than the track record for this race. The Belmont entry was the public choice.

Stallings a Coach

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 21.—George T. Stallings, manager of the world champion Boston Nationals, last night gave the Harvard baseball squad instruction in "inside baseball." He is said to have consented to act as a sort of advisory coach to the team.

Max Carey pulled a clean steal of home in the game between the Giants and Pirates. Babe Adams was working in good order for the Corsairs, and required an error by his help to give the Giants a run.

The Braves allowed some clever hurling by Tom Hughes to go to waste, when Sherwood spilled the beans with a muff of fly ball in the seventh. Hughes whiffed eleven Cubs, but Magee's muff followed a double and single, and three runs were counted.

"Dutch" Shultz pulled a bone in the game between the Dodgers and Cardinals which permitted the latter to win. With two down, he foolishly pegged to third too late to catch a runner when he had plenty of time to nail his man at first. The Dodgers then scored two runs on Hyatt's long double.

EL DALLO

Each Cigar its Own Humidor
Dust, air and odors can't come in through the El Dallo wrappings. Flavor, moisture and mildness can't go out, for each El Dallo is wrapped in a foil and tissue wrapper by special machinery at a cost next to nothing. You are sure of getting a good cigar, kept good, if you lay down a nickel and say El Dallo. No, the cigar man isn't handing you a 10c smoke by mistake; 5c is El Dallo's regular price, but it's worth twice as much to you in satisfaction.
